Rally tapes ordered released

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In

the first such ruling involving a civil suit, a federal judge has ordered the White House to release nine hours of former President Richard M. Nixon's tapes in connection with the mass arrests at a May, 1971 antiwar rally.

U.S. District Judge William R. Bryant's ruling was handed down last week, but was reinforced Wednesday at a hearing during which attorneys for Nixon sought a delay compliance with a subpoena for the material.

The ruling could prove to be a precedent in the more than 20 other civil cases pending against the former president nationwide. Nixon attorney Raymond Laroche told Bryant he would attempt to block compliance with the subpoena.

The judge responded by telling Laroche, "I'll order the tapes to be produced a week from today." Whether that date will be met remains to be seen.

The ruling came after telling Laroche, "I'll order the tapes to be produced a week from today." Whether that date will be met remains to be seen.

Hailey group files appeal

By BART QUESNELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — Several Hailey people have filed an appeal in the Ninth Circuit US Court of Appeals against McCulloch Properties Inc. and the Hailey City Council.

The group is appealing McCulloch's original intention of hooking up to the Hailey sewer system.

McCulloch is the developer of Woodsfield.

Those appealing the case are John and Martha Burke, Gerald Gordon, Wade and Jeanette Gitchels, Dennis Hansen, Myra Ruggen, Robert and Lynn Ward, William and Mildred Whetstone.

The brief names acting mayor L.F. Heagle and city councilmen Neal Nyblad, Claude Porter, Charles Dunn and Kyle Brennen as well as McCulloch Properties as defendants. Plaintiffs were dismissed in district court last year.

The group alleges "They are threatened with inability to improve their land by construction of homes and buildings thereon by reason of the threatened use of sewage disposal capacity necessary to serve their land by the McCulloch project." In the developed.

During the 1972 rush by McCulloch to get the 640 acre Woodsfield annexed, the Hailey people felt McCulloch was taking away their right to use the sewer disposal plant, according to Jim Donart, attorney for the appellants.

McCulloch subsequently gained permission from the Idaho Health Department to construct its own plant. Restrictions however on most of the property are still in effect and only three lots have been approved suitable for building.

Donart said the group has appealed the case even though McCulloch has changed its plans because "They do not believe McCulloch intends to go through with the construction of the proposed sewer line and plant."

There is a feeling in Hailey, Donart said, that the hiring of engineers and an attempt to gain health department approval is a plot to make the operation look progressive.

Donart and McCulloch insist however, the intent of obtaining the Hailey sewer system eventually and dropping its plans for its own treatment plant.

The city has annexed the Woodsfield development. Mr. McCulloch's brief to the court being handled by city attorney Stephen Boller contends "The court has no power to enjoin the mayor or City Council of Hailey from exercising their legislative discretion."

The brief continues "there is no constitutional violation and the act is not unconstitutional."

2 TF men named to 'Hall of Fame'

TWIN FALLS — Two Twin Falls men were among four named to the Idaho Water Association Hall of Fame.

Pat Parry and Vic Nelson, both Twin Falls; Leonard Graham, Rigby, and Arlie Parkins, Marsing, were named recipients of the annual awards Wednesday.

The four will be honored Dec. 5 at the association's yearly banquet in Idaho Falls. The awards are given to individuals "in recognition of their long and meritorious service and furthering the wise utilization of the water resources of the state."

Lois Chandler prepares for opening of new TF store

New TF store opens today

TWIN FALLS — Chandler's, a new "mini-department store" located on Filer Avenue East, opened its doors here Thursday.

The store, described by its owners as a "mini-department" store without the clothes is located across from the Lynwood Shopping Center. Owners are Mr. and Mrs. H.K. Chandler, Clearfield, Utah, and Mr. and Mrs. Michael L. Chandler, Twin Falls.

Mike Chandler, a 22-year-old Idaho Falls native, is manager, and his wife, Lois,

Chandler's will sell a wide range of products, including gift items such as crystal and stainless steelware, jewelry, medical instruments and clocks, and small electrical appliances. The store also offers all major appliances including freezers, refrigerators, stoves, washers and dryers. Stereo equipment and televisions are part of the store's merchandise.

Chandler said the store was intended to offer better brand merchandise at a lower price, and added he would emphasize personal service in his business. "What can Chandler's do for you?" is the company motto.

"At grand opening ceremonies today and Friday, there will be more than 50 items, including a color television to be given away.

The store will be open Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., with late hours till 8 p.m. planned for some days next week.

Sloppy housekeeping at Gem N-laboratory

It is apparent that the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory has been careless, sloppy and perhaps irresponsible in its past handling of nuclear wastes in Idaho.

Even so, there is little evidence of serious threats to Idaho residents from past blunders. There is even some reason to believe INEL is beginning to tighten up its procedures for disposing nuclear wastes.

But while there is no immediate cause for alarm, there is plenty of reason to question the laboratory's performance.

Several items have come to light about past practices at Arco which raise doubts.

A large amount of contaminated material has been stored in cardboard boxes. The AEC says this is no cause for alarm, because radioactive agents could not reach the Snake River Aquifer hundreds of feet below because of the arid storage site.

However, the Times-News has learned that there have been at least two floods in the storage area, and many of the cartons and barrels have been photographed bobbing in the floodwaters. It is certainly possible that the huge underwater lake could have been partially contaminated in the incidents.

The Idaho laboratory took steps to correct the problem we are told—Food-control and drainage systems were installed.

The laboratory took its time about it, however. It waited for seven years until the second flood occurred. Only then did it move to correct the problem.

One wonders how many other problems have developed at Arco which won't be corrected until the trouble is repeated.

Most alarming is the statement by INEL officials that the Idaho laboratory has only partial records on what waste is stored where. Presumably that means some is lost.

This is an almost unbelievable admission. It shakes our confidence in the laboratory's ability or desire to keep its house in order.

Action-on petrodollars

Christian Science Monitor

Secretary Kissinger has offered the Ford administration's first specific proposal on what he called the "most serious oil-mediate problem" of the oil-consuming nations.

This problem is what do about the rush of $60 billion a year to the oil producers and its potentially destabilizing impact on world money markets.

Dr. Kissinger proposed an international bailout of up to $25 billion which industrial nations could help each other to compensate for sudden withdrawals of investments by oil producers, severe balance of payment deficits, or other exigencies caused by the petrodollar situation.

This is a positive undertaking. But the administration needs to go further, and soon, along the lines Dr. Kissinger advocated almost a year ago. Then it looked toward a meeting between the oil producers and the oil consumers, large and small, which has recently been brought forward by President Giscard d'Estaing of France.

And there seems no doubt that little substantive progress on the handling of petrodollars can be made without the participation of the oil producers. They must have confidence that their interests will be respected, and their sovereignty preserved.

So far the Ford administration has resisted such a meeting. Officials apparently feel it would give undue recognition to a cartel or imply an acceptance of continued high oil prices.

But outside experts see no alternative to such a joint effort at solving the petrodollar problem. With the United States likely to remain the principal country for the investment of petrodollars, President Ford ought to stop hanging back and take the lead in bringing about such an effort.

Every dollar increases the urgency as the oil producers' monetary reserves mount toward an estimated $600 billion by 1980. Several times the whole world's foreign exchange reserves today.

With assurances of American support for solutions, the oil producers might be amenable to one of the more far-reaching plans to make the petrodollars serve international stability, instead of shattering it.

The International Monetary Fund (IMF), for example, could absorb petrodollars at prevailing interest rates and then make loans at subsidized rates to countries in financial straits. Or a fund separate from the IMF might be more attractive to the oil producers with a mechanism to help poor countries that are being made poorer by high oil prices.

It is the excess, insatiable petrodollars in a comparative handful of countries that create the main problem. Just as all countries spend petrodollars to develop their own societies and resources, they are simply and often belatedly realizing an appropriate return on their oil. Though their prices are too high now, it must be remembered they had remained virtually unchanged for 25 years.

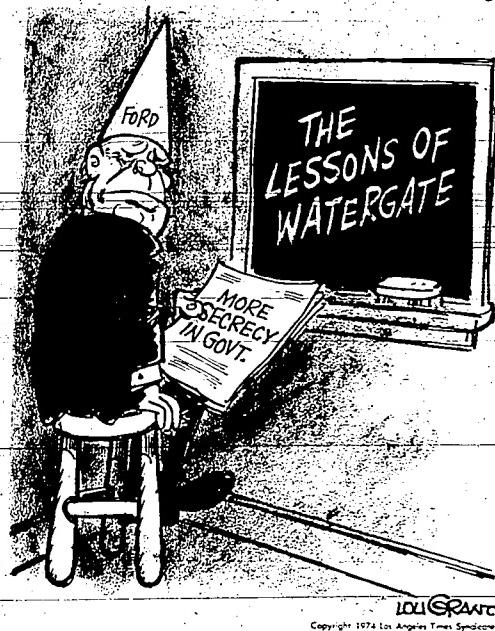

Now, in addition to the huge movements of money to distributed nations—$7 billion to the US in three months—petrodollar financial patterns are emerging within the Arab world.

Lebanon or Tunisia, for example, becomes a kind of broker, helping oil-rich lands with internal development projects using oil money. Tunisia, with its ties to the West, seeks to link petrodollars from Kuwait or Qatar with American or European technology to develop export industry.

Certainly responsible uses of petrodollars need to be encouraged in contrast to fast-mint's image of oil-rich Arabs gambling away $6 billion at roulette in Monte Carlo.

But, in a figurative sense, something as chance as roulette will symbolize the whole petrodollar situation unless the oil consumers and oil producers act together quickly to prevent chaos.

Truth most important

WASHINGTON — U.S. District Court Judge

John Sirica may be unconvincing in his skeptical questioning of witnesses in the Watergate trials, but he is performing a public service for which the people should be grateful.

Sirica is seeking out every last smudge of legal and illegal secretiveness and getting at the truth is more important to the commonweal than the conviction or acquittal of either of the numerous defendants.

Indeed, Sirica's handling of witnesses at the criminal Watergate trial in April last year already has been soundly affirmed by the U.S. Court of Appeals here, whose decision entitled to a fair trial, not a perfect trial. It was a victory for a judge who is trying to find out what went on.

Sirica went at it again the other day. After sending the jurors home, he took over questioning of Herbert W. Kalmbach, once President Nixon's personal lawyer and secret fund-raiser. Sirica made it plain he had hard to believe Kalmbach's claim that it took him in that a month to learn that the man involved in the "Watergate secret" in handling hush money payments to the original Watergate defendants.

Kalmbach insisted that he had believed the payments were for "humanitarian" purposes. The self-styled Kalmbach, who has��dough, colleagues had used aliases, secret codes and pay telephone booths to arrange the payments from the beginning.

Kalmbach previously had admitted that two lawyers had refused to accept cash payments. Did that not arouse Kalmbach's suspicions? No, Kalmbach replied, he merely thought there was a "misunderstanding" on the lawyers' part. Yet he admitted that he had never been paid a big legal fee in cash during his years as a lawyer.

Earlier, before the jury, Kalmbach had said that in all he accounted for some $20,000, including $3,000 that he returned to Frederick Lafitte, another Nixon campaign aide.

Asked Sirica: "Before this occasion, when you were raising money for the Republican Party, were any of these hundreds of thousands of dollars contributed money used for humanitarian purposes?" This was the very first time Sirica had asked.

"Yes," he replied. Kalmbach

Well, now, perhaps Kalmbach was telling the truth, but Sirica cannot be blamed for wondering how an experienced lawyer could have been so obtuse not to suspect that the money was being used to "hush up" those people that had been arrested.

ANDREW
TULLY

Kalmbach, now serving a nine-to-month prison sentence for campaign law violations, was defended by Prosecutor James F. Neal, who intervened to say Kalmbach had told the same story in previous interviews.

Sirica was unimpressive to the intervention in behalf of a witness. "I have a perfect right ... to get all the facts out, regardless of who it might help or hurt," the judge told Neal crisply.

In other words, with the jury dismissed, John Sirica was determined to lay it all on the trial record in the interest of the people's right to know. In doing so, he risked reversal by a higher court.

If that happens, so be it. This is a judge who clearly is determined to give Main Street the truth and ... especially in a conspiracy reaching into the White House. That's what the System should be all about.

Pentagon worries over Israeli arms drain

WASHINGTON — Behind the shuns on American Jews by Gen. George Brown is concern that the Pentagon's war drain on military and to Israel.

Accordingly, the general's blunt warning at Duke University last month that Israel's influence in the U.S. Congress is "so strong you wouldn't believe it" had a solid foundation. Brown's warning about Israel's control over the U.S. Congress is reflected in the vast transfer of scarce military supplies to Israel.

Pentagon concern reached a peak just after the 32nd birthday of Israel's military equipment to Israel during and after the Arab-Israeli war in October, 1973.

The result is this: Major tanks, airlifted out of U.S. military depots in West Germany and flown to the Mideast have still not been replaced in the American arsenal.

All told, some 600 American tanks have appeared in Israel. That was almost to per cent of the entire American tank force. With a production line running at 20 a month, that drain down of the American arsenal to and Israel ate up nearly two years of capacity.

Along with half the supply of TOW launchers, Israel also obtained 2,000 TOW-warheads, about 25 per cent of the entire S stock.

There are other examples of the dangerous drawdown of American military capabilities forced on the Pentagon by the October war. For instance, the Air Force today is short of the small percentage of EA fighter aircraft equipped with electronic countermeasures.

Even the Israeli air force is short of tanks, though it has a more limited operational task.

Potentially more damaging for the U.S. was the airlift of nearly half the combat supply of the TOW anti-tank missiles, the徘徊的坦克 killer. Although precise numbers are secret, approximately 100 missile launchers were rushed to Israel.

Along with half the supply of TOW launchers, Israel also obtained 2,000 TOW-warheads, about 25 per cent of the entire S stock.

There are other examples of the dangerous drawdown of American military capabilities forced on the Pentagon by the October war. For instance, the Air Force today is short of the small percentage of EA fighter aircraft equipped with electronic countermeasures.

Even the Israeli air force is short of tanks, though it has a more limited operational task.

Potentially more damaging for the U.S. was the airlift of nearly half the combat supply of the tanks left over in Germany to Israel; it was 2,000 tanks short when the Israelis made their demand.

But there is a deeper reason for Brown's outburst against Jewish influence in American politics.

In short, the preoccupation in Congress with defense of Israel short circuits Pentagon fears about U.S. influence throughout the Moslem world, particularly in the Arab oil states. Air Force pilots today are restricted to extremely short flight time to conserve fuel. Likewise, the Navy's steaming days for front-line warships have been drastically reduced.

All this has behind Brown's assault on the power of the American Jewish community. Apart from the general rhetoric, the Pentagon views the Middle East in terms of long-range U.S. strategic interests—a view that does not always parallel that of Israel.

Ford installing shock absorbers in Japan

(c) Chicago Daily News

TONYO — President Ford is continuing the task of reassuring Japan that his administration will not engage in the political and economic shocks inflicted upon it by his predecessor.

The ceremonial rituals behind him, Ford has informed Japanese officials they can count on a stable relationship between the two countries and feeders, the bulk of which they import from the United States. The Japanese in turn hinted that they might relax the prohibition on imports of American beef, according to Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

At the same time, however, the Japanese indicated that because they depend almost entirely upon imported oil for their industrial machine, they have a much narrower margin for juggling other nations in an energy conservation program.

At a luncheon given by Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka, who is generally regarded as a lame duck because of charges of personal corruption that have engulfed him, Ford stressed the importance of Japanese-American relations, especially in dealing with the food and energy shortages in the world.

Tanaka reflected the energy calm that invades over Japan, probably by observing that the United States has turned its back toward Europe—the major ethnic as well as cultural source of its people. Ford got an unshedding firsthand report of the uneasiness tell here over nuclear weapons on U.S. vessels in Japanese waters when an opposition party leader, Bo Kusinger of the Democratic Socialist Party, paused in the reception line to bend the President's ear for about five minutes about Japanese apprehensions.

In a briefing after the first Ford-Tanaka talks, Kissinger underscored the President's assurances about the exports of American foodstuffs to Japan.

Kissinger also noted that the Japanese, who import 99 percent of their oil needs, use about 70 percent of it for industrial purposes and 30 percent for personal use, the opposite proportion of the U.S.

For this reason, Kissinger said, the Japanese feel they have a more limited operational task.

PETER

Consequently, they are generally sympathetic to the U.S. call for concerted effort to save oil through a reduction in imports.

A strong cattle lobby here has resulted in a total ban on U.S. beef, which the U.S. is seeking to ease. Kissinger said Tanaka had voiced Japanese sensitivity to the issue of nuclear weapons on their soil, and that Ford had agreed that the matter would be handled within the framework of the U.S.-Japan mutual security treaty.

Tanaka's position held on his job prompted Kissinger to insist that the two countries must eventually reach an understanding, his initial first-hand encounter with the complex ins and outs of Japanese political practices and policies.

curiously about Ford after admittedly strained experiences with former President Nixon, whose decision to visit China in February, 1972, was taken without advance notice to Japan, whose leaders were offended. The export quotas on American agricultural products summarily imposed by Nixon also irritated the Japanese.

Tanaka's alleged experience in foreign affairs and similar mannerings, though likely to run into considerable difficulty in understanding his initial first-hand encounter with the complex ins and outs of Japanese political practices and policies.

You're really a joy to talk to, Baradash.

Things aren't that bad," he said. "Interest rates are good."

"That's good," I brightened up.

"It won't solve our inflation problem, though. It makes it easier to get price," will probably go up again," I said.

"That would be good," I said.

"I would be grateful if you could give us more information on your money to buy our exports, except possibly food. If we export food, prices in the supermarkets will go soaring and we'll have a revolution at home."

"Baradash, you represent the government."

"Is there anything your people can do to save us?"

"Well, I'm wearing my WIN button, aren't I?" he said.

"That's good," I said.

"No," he replied. "That's bad. The damn thing cost me a buck, and it keeps making holes in my suit," he said.

"I'm glad to hear that," I said.

Letters

America should take first place

Editor, Times-News:
The United States has been the guarantor of more freedom and more opportunity — for more human beings — than any other nation in all history. Our heritage of liberty, including recognition of God's role in creation and in His granting of inalienable rights, is without equal in the long history of man's struggle on earth.

No one ever claimed perfection for "our past" or our present. But anyone who believes that our future would be brighter if we scrapped the American system and damned the best that man has ever produced is crazy or an enemy of human freedom like the Communists.

We should get back to limiting the government, not the people. Let's be the hands of the politicians, not the products. Let's insist on independence and a non-compromising "interdependence" that Pres. de Gaulle Ford proclaimed to the Communist controlled United Nations. And then, let us foster pride in our accomplishments while we work to make America even more deserving of our love and admiration.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Tumors spur query

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like some information on fatty tumors that are growing all over my body. Have I asked my doctor what is causing this and how do I stop them?

All I got out of him is, "Are they bothering you? If not, don't worry about them." What is your answer? — W.F.

Cause of fatty tumors (lipomas) is not known. Neither is there any way of preventing them. But since they grow big enough to be a nuisance, or are insistently my answer is, "If they aren't bothering you, don't worry about them."

Note to R.M.: Using "growing pains" as an easy explanation is misleading because growing isn't painful. In your case you have had sad proof that, with your foot turning over on one side, something serious is wrong. Your folks should see that you get some expert care. My suggestion would be to see an orthopedist.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it harmful to sleep under an electric blanket or sleep with a heating pad all night? — E.P.J.

I continue to warn against leaving a heating pad on all night, particularly for older folks whose circulation isn't too good. Unlike a hot water bottle, a heating pad doesn't gradually cool off and maintain temperature. And the fact that a temperature that does not burn with short exposure can burn the skin on continued exposure. The average person does not realize how relatively low a temperature can burn.

However, I have no objection to electric blankets otherwise.

TV right exercised

Editor, Times-News:
I just read a letter in the Sunday issue of the Times-News.

In this letter it was stated that Channel 11 opposed its right to substitute another program or film if network production seems to be against the better judgment of the local station or local citizenship. This is wrong. Channel 11 has exercised this right many times by substituting films of the Sunday night movie. Furthermore, in the program "The Reasoner Report," the audience was warned what was in the segment "Midwife."

AT&T chief vows fight against breakup

AT&T'S JOHN de BUTTS
... pledges suit battle

NEW YORK (UPI) — AT&T will fight the government's attempt to break up the giant communications corporation with all its power, Chairman John D. DeButts said Wednesday.

Competitors in communications equipment cheered the government's antitrust suit against AT&T, saying it would mean cheaper phone service.

Chief targets of the Justice Department suit are AT&T's regional divisions: Western Electric and its research arm, Bell Labs. The government asked the federal courts Wednesday to force AT&T to sell the two divisions.

"Our obligation to the public, as well as to our investors and employees, requires us to do all in our power to see that that doesn't happen," DeButts told a news conference.

"The telephone network to work efficiently must be designed, built and operated as a single entity. It is for this reason ... that the Bell System is structured as it is."

If AT&T is forced to divest itself of the two divisions, DeButts said, it will mean "telephone service would deteriorate and cost much more" because internal controls would be missing and because Bell would no longer buy equipment from Western Electric at prices "20 per cent less than what they have to pay outside."

If the equipment division became independent, he said, "They could raise prices, and they would."

A spokesman for Western Electric said Bell telephone affiliates are free to buy their equipment from any company of their choice. But, he said, "When they buy from us, they get the best deal."

DeButts said he was "astounded" by the antitrust suit but predicted AT&T would eventually win in a lengthy legal battle.

He added that although the company had given the Justice Department "everything they asked for" in the investigation, the company received no advance notice of the filing of the suit.

Competitors in equipment communications welcomed the antitrust action.

Jack Biddle, executive director of the Computer Industry Association, representing computer and communications industries, said AT&T's "natural monopoly" should be limited to local switching networks.

"Competition is feasible and ... in the national interest in all other areas," Biddle said.

Stockbrokers said the suit would send "shock waves" through the investment community that would lessen with time.

"It probably will have some effect on the company's stock and bond prices, and be an overhang concern for some time," said Larry Watchel, analyst for Salomon Brothers.

"In the long run, things will return to normal because the price tags take years to settle, and certainly nobody thinks that AT&T securities will remain depressed for too long."

UN chief, Arabs schedule talks

United Press International
United Nations Secretary General Kurt Waldheim will meet Arab officials in the Middle East next week for talks aimed at preventing the tense situation there from exploding into a full Arab-Israel war. Foreign Ministry sources in Cairo said today:

In London, diplomatic sources said the Soviet Union was ready to recognize a Palestine government-in-exile following the Moscow visit of Palestine Liberation Leader Yasser Arafat, but will insist that Israel be allowed to survive as an independent state.

The U.N. General Assembly was scheduled to wind up its debate on Palestine today, but Ambassador John Segal was listed as the speaker and was expected to insist the American proposal for a Palestinian state be accepted as an independent state.

Next, Waldheim's visit comes Egyptian Foreign Minister Ihsan Fahmi warned that Israel's threats of military action could wreck the U.S.-Soviet detente and trigger a third world war.

The Foreign Ministry sources said Waldheim sent a message to Fahmi suggesting the visit to Cairo at the end of next week as part of the secretary general's Middle East tour. Fahmi welcomed Waldheim to Egypt, the sources said. The secretary general also plans to visit Syria and Israel in hopes of persuading Syria to secure a renewal of the mandate keeping U.N. peace-keeping forces on the Golan Heights frontier between Israel and Syrian forces. The mandate expires Nov. 30 and Syria has hinted it may renew it.

Tension rose sharply in the Middle East last week following Israeli mobilization of troops along the Golan Heights and charges the Syrians were unloading new shipments of Soviet arms. Israel staged almost daily attacks on Palestinian targets in southern Lebanon. The situation was heightened Tuesday when Palestinian guerrillas attacked a small apartment building in Bet She'an—and Israel vowed a "war of terror."

Aerosol damages to ozone probed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Academy of Sciences has ordered an investigation into the possibility that gases from household aerosol cans may damage the atmosphere's ozone layer that protects us from solar radiation.

It was learned Wednesday that the academy's governing body acted last Saturday on the recommendation of a special five-member panel of scientists who agreed the matter poses a serious threat to the environment and warrants immediate attention.

Donald M. Harten, chairman of the panel, said he believes the investigation by the National Research Council's Climatic Impact Committee probably will lead to a recommendation for restrictions on manufacture of the propellant gases known as fluorocarbons.

"My personal feelings are it really is serious and drastic actions are going to be necessary within a year or two to protect the ozone layer unless there is some completely new factor about the chemistry of the atmosphere that no one has thought of yet," he said in a telephone interview this afternoon at the Kirtland National Observatory in Tucson, Ariz.

The concern is that the gases used in hair sprays, deodorants, insecticides and the like are building up in the upper atmosphere where they can destroy much of the ozone layer. The fluorocarbons, most commonly known commercially as Freon, are harmless in themselves. But their reaction with sunlight releases chlorine atoms, which in turn break down ozone molecules.

It is the ozone, a form of oxygen concentrated 15 to 30 miles high, that screens out nearly all of the high-intensity ultraviolet radiation from the sun. It has been estimated that a 5 per cent reduction in ozone would increase the incidence of skin cancer in the United States by anywhere from 3,000 to tens of thousands in cases a year.

No pledges against more 'dirty tricks'

Contelcom, despite a Justice Department panel's finding that it included activities "that are reprehensible in a free society,"

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department says it does not condone the "dirty tricks" used by the late J. Edgar Hoover, former FBI Director, and FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley, refused Wednesday to promise they wouldn't happen again.

Both Justice Department officials and Kelley testified before a House Judiciary subcommittee with the department officials trying to avoid a controversy over Hoover's methods by saying it does not condone unconstitutional activity and would not allow it to be repeated.

Democrats pressed Kelley to repudiate tactics such as those used against leftist groups in the 1960s by Hoover, under the label "Contelcom."

Alt Kelley would say was that he would first get approval of the attorney general or the President before using similar methods.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., the committee chairman, said he would support the bill on the floor and would oppose cloturing it with amendments, but acknowledged that the time factor was working against him.

The bill will be taken up in the Senate at the earliest on Dec. 5, after testimony Dec. 3 by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger on the section of the bill opening the way to trade concessions to the Soviet Union in return for more liberal Soviet emigration policies.

If the Senate passes the bill, a conference with the House will be necessary to reconcile numerous differences between Senate and House versions. While the differences are scattered through the complex bill, both versions are generally along the lines recommended first by President Nixon and later backed by President Ford.

The Senate approved an $8.5-billion catch-all supplemental appropriations bill which includes $20,000,000 for the $150,000 requested by Ford to facilitate Nixon's return to private life.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield introduced legislation which would give Ford power to control wages, prices, profits, interest rates, and dividends. No action is expected this week.

Senate-House negotiators remained deadlocked in their efforts to fashion a compromise strip mining bill. The key issue holding up agreement is giving surface owners rights to western ranchers.

Suit lists Mountain Bell

WASHINGTON (UPI)

Twenty-three local telephone affiliates of the Bell System were named co-conspirators by the Justice Department Wednesday in the AT&T antitrust suit.

The companies have not been charged as defendants in the complaint but are said by the government to have participated in some of the government's illegal acts.

The companies are:

Alaska Telephone & Telegraph Co., Southern New England Telephone Co., New York Telephone Co., New Jersey Bell Telephone Co., Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania, Diamond State Telephone Co. and Chesapeake and Potowmack Telephone Co.

— Chesapeake and Potowmack Telephone Co. of Maryland, Chesapeake and Potowmack Telephone Co. of Virginia, Chesapeake and Potowmack Telephone Co. of West Virginia, Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co., South Central Bell Telephone Co. and One Bell Telephone Co.

Cincinnati Bell Inc., Michigan Bell Telephone Co., Indiana Bell Telephone Co., Wisconsin Telephone Co., Illinois Bell Telephone Co., Northwestern Bell Telephone Co., Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Co., Pacific Northwest Bell Telephone Co., and Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Senate remains final hope to save 2 vetoes

WASHINGTON (UPI)

After suffering lopsided defeats in the House, the administration turned to the Senate today in hopes of salvaging two of President Ford's vetoes.

By unusually large margins, the House overrode Ford's vetoes of a vocational rehabilitation bill and a measure to open law enforcement units to the public under specific conditions.

The first veto was overturned 338 to 71; 129 members then required to sustain the veto. The second veto was rejected 371 to 101 more than needed.

The Senate scheduled midafternoon, back-to-back votes on the vetoes. The results were expected to be closer.

The House Judiciary Committee, in its first major undertaking since voting impeachment articles against former President Richard M. Nixon, opened hearings on the nomination of Nelson A. Rockefeller to be vice president.

And congressional Interior committees will get two versions of the government's drive to become self-sufficient in energy, outgoing energy chief John Sawhill testifying on the Senate side and Interior Secretary Rogers B. Morton in the House.

In major actions Wednesday:

— The Senate approved an $8.5-billion catch-all supplemental appropriations bill which includes $20,000,000 for the $150,000 requested by Ford to facilitate Nixon's return to private life.

— Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield introduced legislation which would give Ford power to control wages, prices, profits, interest rates, and dividends. No action is expected this week.

Portugal balking at supply flights

(UPI) — New York Times Service

LISBON — Portugal is refusing to commit itself in advance to allowing the United States to use air facilities in the Azores for ferrying military supplies to Israel in the event of war.

At the same time, Portuguese officials are pressuring the United States for a decision to accord economic aid quickly and there are indications that it such a decision is not forthcoming, Portugal might not sign a new Azores agreement.

Pending such an agreement, the old agreement that expired last February is still force and under its terms the United States is not obliged to ask Portuguese permission to use the base for purposes other than the North Atlantic defense-in-practical terms is believed the United States would at least advise the Portuguese.

Last week, when middle East tension reached a high point, the office of President Francisco da Costa Gomes was alerted by the U.S. em in the middle of the night to a possible crisis.

Dean's fall swift

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For John W. Dean III, the fall from power and grace was swift: from White House hero to goat overnight, and all due to Watergate.

From the time of the Watergate hearings in June of 1972 until it reached scandal proportions, in the spring of 1973, Dean, as White House counsel, had been all over the case — keeping his fingers in the dike, as Richard Nixon once put it, whenever leaks started to spring.

But when Dean informed the President on April 15 last year he had started cooperating with the prosecutors, his image and status plummeted at once. By the next day, Nixon was saying that Dean had "decided to save his ass" and would be fired.

"If he, if he, uh, he gets a cap out he's gonna, he's gonna be dead... Nixon said in a White House tape played at the Watergate cover-up trial in

"You can't have him around here with this kind of stuff he's gonna be dead, and it ain't me."

But it was H.R. Haldeman, the White House chief of staff, not among the five men on trial, who took Dean's defense for the hardest.

"I just admit the guy has really turned into an unbelievable disaster for us," Haldeman said with some bitterness on April 17, while admitting Dean was "not un-American and not Nixon."

"He busted his ass trying to work this out, and I'll write him to a frazzle, and I think it probably won't help him past the point of rationality."

"I think he may be in a mental state that's causing him to do things that, that ab... when he sober up, he's going to be very disturbed about himself."

Gunman hits Protestant

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunman shot and killed a Protestant, man today and strolled his body in the back seat of a car in Belfast. It was the third killing in Northern Ireland in less than 24 hours.

Extremists — in Northern Ireland shot a Roman Catholic bobby to death Wednesday night — just hours after a policeman died in a bomb blast.

Detectives alerted by an anonymous telephone call today discovered the body of the 34-year-old Protestant man in downtown Belfast. They said the man, father of five children, was shot in the head. The slayings pushed the death toll to 1,122 in five years of political and religious violence in the bitterly divided province.

A plane has crossed the Atlantic in less than two hours. Now, if they could just get from the airport to New York in less than three.

Magazines shut down

LIMA (UPI) — The military government shut down two of the last independent news magazines in Peru Wednesday and ordered nine journalists deported.

The government accused the magazines and the reporters of conducting an anti-government campaign.

The move came after the two weekly magazines, Siglo and Opinion Libre, criticized the government's $320-million pipeline deal with Japan.

The government ordered the immediate shutdown of the magazines, the deportation of the journalists, the closure of the two magazines and the arrest of two prominent lawyers.

The lawyers arrested had denounced the contract with Japan as "illegal and in violation of Peruvian law on foreign investment." The pact involves financing of a pipeline from the oil fields of the Amazon to Peru's north Pacific coast.

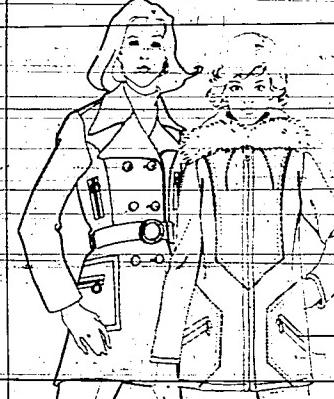

The lawyers' objections were prominently featured in the two magazines.

Oiga, once a strong backer of the social reform-minded Opinion Libre, turned critic after he took over all major newspapers in Lima on July 27.

Missing statement on tape for jury to hear

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Palm Sunday weekend of 1973 marked the beginning of the end for Richard M. Nixon. It was then that he finally realized with growing despair that the cracks in the Watergate dike were widening and he was about to be engulfed by the tide.

"What in the name of Christ is this all about?" he asked John D. Ehrlichman, his bewildered new幕僚 near midnight on April 14, a year ago. "We're going to be buried in our own tapes."

Ehrlichman suggested "The king of the mountain."

Those words were missing when Nixon, claiming to tell the full Watergate story once and for all, released transcripts of his secret tapes last April.

But they were there for the jury to hear Wednesday at the cover-up trial of five former Nixon aides.

Ehrlichman is among them, along with John N. Mitchell, H.R. Haldeman, Robert C. Mardian and Kenneth W. Parkinson.

"Four trial tapes — none of which have ever been made public even in transcript form were to be played for the jury today as the prosecution nears the end of its case in the eighth week of the trial.

The jurors have been hearing little but tapes all this week and on Wednesday they were taken back in line to the weekend of April 14-17, 1973, to hear for themselves in nine separate recordings how the Nixon White House was responding to the deepening crisis.

In quick succession that weekend — which started officially on a Friday the 13th — four major developments occurred, though none were made public until months later:

— John W. Dean III, then the White House counsel who had played a key role in the cover-up, also began cooperating with the government.

— Nixon saw the handwriting on the wall as soon as Ehrlichman reported Saturday afternoon that Mitchell not only would not shoulder the responsibility but also had "lobbed" the mud balls at the White House at every opportunity.

— The fault is the White House's rather than his, Nixon summed up Mitchell's stand grimly in a line that also was missing in the White House version of the tape.

— John W. Dean III, then the White House counsel who had played a key role in the cover-up, also began cooperating with the government.

Amtrak head to resign

ROGER LEWIS
... to resign

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Roger Lewis, Amtrak's only president through the faltering three-and-a-half year revival of the passenger train, will resign as soon as a successor can be found.

Lewis told the Amtrak board of directors Wednesday he would quit as president and chief executive officer, ending all contact with the day-to-day operations of the national passenger train network. He will remain a member of the board.

He cited "personal reasons" for his decision.

Caught between a White House administration that phased out the passenger train and a Congress that wanted vast expansion, Lewis was cast as villain to advocates of public passenger trains because of his cautious approach to expansion.

Critics said Lewis never believed the passenger train would succeed until the energy crisis caused an avalanche of new passengers. By then it was too late to order new equipment and revise operations to handle them.

Supporters, fewer in number, countered that Lewis' problems were often out of his own making and that he sometimes made "near capricious" stands to prevent both railroads and the Amtrak system from downgrading his trains.

Resigned, Lewis will be succeeded by a new Amtrak board appointed earlier this year, already has begun a search for a new operating officer. It was generally assumed he would take Lewis' place as president.

Two men have been seriously mentioned as possible Lewis successors: Paul Restrup of the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad and Paul Crunkshank of the U.S. Railway Association.

Death sentence given

FARMINGTON, Utah (UPI)

Two young men were sentenced to death Wednesday night for the April 22 torture slayings of three persons in a stereo shop robbery at Ogden, Utah.

A District Court jury

before returning its verdict against Dale S. Pierre, 21, Tehama, and William A. Andrews, Jr., Jonesboro, La., who had been stationed at Hill

Air Force Base, Utah.

Judge John E. Wahlquist set Nov. 27 for sentencing.

Under Utah law, a convicted murderer has his choice of death by shooting or life imprisonment.

The death sentences were the first since the state adopted a new capital punishment statute.

Pierre and Andrews were convicted Saturday of killing Sherry Michelle Anley, 30; Stanley O. Walker, 20, and the mother of Miss Anley was in the courtroom. She said later that nothing would bring her daughter back "but I am pleased—with the jury's recommendation of the death penalty."

Two persons survived the torture. One of them had a penile Jammed into his ear.

The defendants' attorneys said they would appeal the verdict.

Miss Anley's mother, Mrs. Laura Swind, said she went to the court because "I just wanted to make sure they got the death penalty. I think I would have lost faith in our system of justice if they didn't."

Belli may appeal suit dismissal

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Flamboyant attorney Melvin Belli says he may appeal a federal judge's dismissal of his $3 million suit against a professional association which censured him for appearing in a scotch whisky ad.

The State Bar had recommended Belli be suspended for a year because of unethical advertising. The California Supreme Court reduced the punishment to 30 days.

US District Judge Robert Schnecke, in dismissing Belli's suit, said the bar performed its duty as part of the judicial process.

The bar had contended that Belli's appearance in the ad was a violation of the profession's rules against soliciting employment by advertising.

Ford quietly increases automobile prices

DETROIT (UPI) — Apparently worried that word of further price increases would push new car sales even lower, the Ford Motor Co. has quietly increased the prices of its 1975 model cars by about 5% or 6% per cent.

A Ford spokesman Wednesday confirmed the price changes that took effect Monday, but said they were "price adjustments" on equipment and not a boost in the base price of the cars. The increase is at top of an average $407 boost, 8 per cent, when the new models were introduced.

Spokesmen for General Motors and Chrysler said there have been no increases or "price adjustments" made on their introductory prices. Salesmen say the higher prices — averaging about $400 a car — are partly responsible for the worst new model introduction in a decade.

Industry spokesman, however, blame a lack of consumer confidence in the economy as a prime reason for the sharp downturn which saw early November sales fall 23 per cent from last year's already depressed levels.

While GM spokesman says price increases are contemplated in the coming month, several dealer sources say the No. 1 auto company has indicated boosts as high as $300 a car might be imposed Jan. 1.

The Ford changes were made by changing dealers for antifreeze that used to be free, or "crossing the cost of optional hazing freight charges and making previously optional equipment of 'delete' options," meaning they would be included on the car unless ordered off by the customer.

The new prices were contained in letters to dealers last week, the Ford spokesman said. There were no increases on the lowest-priced cars.

The pricing action included a $10 increase in freight charges, a change of $9 to dealers for antifreeze that used to be free, about $15 in optional equipment and $11 for "delete" options.

On the Ford LTD, the price was increased by $97 by including tinted glass, deluxe seat belts and an electric clock as "delete" options that will be included in the base price unless the car is ordered without them. Ford Pinto station wagon was boosted by $20 with the addition of tanned belts and tinted glass.

Watergate delayed Kissinger

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Henry A. Kissinger apparently was getting anxious to become secretary of state April 1969, when President Richard M. Nixon sent him a message telling he would just have to wait until the Watergate scandal blew over.

Nixon's message to Kissinger was disclosed in a tape played in federal court Tuesday of an April 14, 1973, White House conversation between Nixon and his top aides, H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman.

The conversation indicated that Kissinger, then Nixon's national security adviser, was pressing to replace Secretary of State William Rogers as soon as possible.

"May I just, uh, stress for one point that this has nothing to do with this except that you've got to fight what's going on down there," Nixon said, interrupting the talk of Watergate strategy. "It is essential," the Rogers departure be delayed until the investigation was "out of the hell with Heng on this."

He then instructed Ehrlichman that "any you got to talk to him you got to just say, 'and Henry, it's not appealable.' You just got to say that, 'Henry, there are bigger things here.'

Nixon reinforced his instructions later by telling Ehrlichman to say Harry Rogers is gonna stay until this thing's over," Nixon said. Rogers wanted to leave June 1 and Ehrlichman added "we may be out of the woods ... it might be over by then."

Rogers did not resign until Aug. 22, 1973, when he was succeeded by Kissinger.

In the interim, the news media received a number of off-the-record reports from White House Department officials said were emanating from Kissinger's White House office — that Kissinger was going to get his job.

TWIN FALLS — A group of parents and professionals will organize a Twin Falls Chapter of the Association for Retarded Citizens here Monday.

According to Mrs. Arlene Gerken, special project coordinator for the Idaho Association for Retarded Citizens, the organizational meeting will be held at 7 p.m. at the Hemingway Building, 210 E. Main.

After Gerken said other local chapters have been organized in Burley, Rupert and Hailey.

One of the purposes of the new organization, she said, is to obtain a sheltered living center in Twin Falls for handicapped persons.

She said such a center would be difficult to obtain in other Magic Valley cities.

The organization's membership consists of parents and friends of handicapped persons, professionals and interested citizens.

She said the organization, concerning itself with both mental and physical handicaps, concerns the needs of the organization to increase public awareness of the needs of handicapped persons, funding and identifying the handicapped, improving recreational programs and legislative lobbying for handicapped persons.

The organization's Twin Falls chapter will be formally organized Monday, and of course, the public is invited.

Several representatives of the state organization, including Dell Fankle, state executive director, will attend the organizational meeting.

Record ransom saves Italian

BRESCIA, Italy (UPI) — Endless, released the son of one of Italy's richest men only Wednesday for what sources close to the investigation said may have been a record ransom of more than $10 million.

Another young kidnap victim set free Tuesday, said the sum of two men and two women that held him told him they wanted money to overthrow the government.

There have been 10 kidnappings in Italy this year, a number of them for multimillion-dollar ransoms, and newspapers have speculated that some of the kidnappers could be behind them. They, through the kidnappers, like last summer's bombers, were intended to create chaos that could lead to revolution.

The latest reported ransom in Italy previously was $4.5 million for the release of Cardinal Giuseppe Siri, son of a candy magnate, last month. Other recent ransoms, said to have run as high as $1 million.

Giovanni Onor, 14-year-old son of a wealthy banker, was snatched from his home in a quiet town near the southern Adriatic port city of Bari where he had been kidnapped on his way to school last Wednesday.

The boy, who was 24 hours away from his two victims seized in a four-day period beginning a week ago, others taken included the 10-year-old daughter of a jewel dealer and the heir to a coffee importing fortune and an automobile dealership. In all, kidnappers now hold eight persons.

Giuseppe Siri, seized Friday by gangsters who claimed he had been paid about $2,000, was set free Saturday in the center of the northern industrial city of Brescia.

The 22-year-old economics student wore a large bandage over a head wound and a black eye. Siri had a family reunion with friends, family and the mayor of Brescia Bruno Boni.

Authorities refused to confirm reports that the youth's father, steel magnate Luigi Lietzheim, paid as much as $10.6 million in ransom.

The elder Lietzheim, who also is part owner of one of Brescia's two newspapers and controls a number of other enterprises, paid the largest family tax in Italy last year — more than $1 million.

The largest reported ransom in Italy previously was $4.5 million for the release of Cardinal Giuseppe Siri, son of a candy magnate, last month.

Other recent ransoms, said to have run as high as $1 million.

Giovanni Onor, 14-year-old son of a wealthy banker, was snatched from his home in a quiet town near the southern Adriatic port city of Bari where he had been kidnapped on his way to school last Wednesday.

"Don't worry; your father can find the money with his business," he quoted his kidnappers as saying. "We need it to overthrow the government."

He said they did not speak Italian but it was unclear whether he thought they were foreigners.

Family lawyers denied a report that a ransom of $10,000 had been paid.

Liberals, Mills eye tax loopholes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A more liberal Congress' national unrest over the economy and Rep. Wilbur Mills' political problems back in Arkansas might be the catalyst next year for closing some big loopholes in the tax laws.

Although real tax reform probably will remain as elusive as ever at the new Congress, a number of congressional tax "advantages" are likely to be sacrificed to an unhappy electorate. Most, the wealthy could find themselves paying more taxes, and the poor less.

Some congressional goals which escaped the gridlocked Congress are more easily attainable.

At the 9th congressional session, the 9th convening in October. These include a true minimum tax on the wealthy, ending many tax shelters, halting abuses of gift and estate taxes, and an equitable tax system for business.

And if companies escape a tax crackdown in the closing days of this Congress, they might as well say goodbye to the deduction allowance and tax-expenditure tax credits.

Liberals seeking to gain strength on the traditionally conservative House Ways and Means Committee, which originates all tax legislation, got a boost in the November elections. Because of retirements and defeats, four conservative Republicans and two liberal Democrats of the 25 members of the committee will be replaced by four liberal Democrats and two conservative Republicans.

But conservatives already have forced creation of at least two Ways and Means committees next year, which could weaken Chairman Mill-

Ketchum sets plan deadline

By BART QUESNELL
Times-News Writer

KETCHUM — The Ketchum City Council has given Greyhawk Development Co. until Jan. 1 to submit final plans revisions for a budget-type development.

Paul Schuler, statistician developer, submitted original plans for the development to be located near the Warm Springs Lift last year ago.

However, this spring Schuler submitted different plans showing two separate housing units connected by a common roof. Schuler has noted that the unit will be used as a resort lodge, rental unit or condominium living space.

City officials accepted the city's Schuler bid of $50,000 during 1974 in building permit fees. Under the contract, according to the council, he still owes $60,000 in severance inspection fees.

Council members asked Schuler during the summer to submit additional information they asked for, including exactly how many acres the structure would occupy, how many units, what it would be used for, etc.

According to building inspector John Farby, the Seattle developer may submit a new plan. Schuler now is operating under plans filed in 1973. If he files new building plans he will be in violation of several conditions under the new Ketchum ordinance.

The Mini-Mart which will be built where the car wash was behind Anderson Lumber Co. was granted a beer and wine license. The city accepted the $10,000 bid from Baker Works Equipment Co. for three pumps for the sewer disposal plant.

Andrus says trip work, not politics

BONNEVIE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said today he did not consider the Democratic Governors' Conference he attended at Hilton Head Island, S.C., to be a political meeting.

If it were a group of Democratic governors getting together to make medicine print headlines, then yes, I would consider that to be a political meeting and therefore paid for my own meals and lodging.

But he said that was not the case and therefore he sees nothing wrong in traveling to the conference in an Air National Guard C-131 twin-engine Convair airplane.

Calling it "a matter of judgment," Andrus said the meeting was the "ills of the nation" and he felt Idaho should be represented.

He said the governors planned about one-and-one-half hours on Democratic politics and two days on tax and economic problems besetting the several states and nation.

Top executives in industry and agriculture met with the governors, he said, to discuss such matters as grain surpluses, overseas sales, revenue sharing, and the plight of the dairy and cattle industries.

He said he took along as a staff aide because Bennett, retiring Dec. 1 as assistant general and he wanted a briefing on the National Guard.

Andrus acknowledged this is the first time he has flown by Air Guard plane to a Democratic Governors' Conference. But he said that simply is because of the timing and location of this one, he flew to Savannah, Ga., and went there to Hilton Head Island by car.

He said he took along as a staff aide because Bennett, retiring Dec. 1 as assistant general and he wanted a briefing on the National Guard.

And the shutdown won't be so great as far as the auto workers are concerned. They will be eligible for government unemployment compensation and supplemental unemployment benefits provided with economic policy-making.

The rumors are likely to jar the authorities out of their moderate, inflation-inhibited industries — steel, glass, textiles, rubber and parts.

Workers in these fields are not fully protected as those in office.

Economists are troubled by the fact that the sales and production weakness is not confined to autos. Consumer durable goods sales are generally lagging — appliances, television sets, furniture. This pattern continues in the construction industries, broadening and intensifying. The coal strike hasn't helped matters either.

No one knows how deep the slide in business activity will go or how long it will last. But there is confidence now that the decline will be significantly greater than officials have been saying.

Unemployment of 6.5 percent of the labor force can no longer be considered the maximum to be reached.

More pertinent question these days is membership in the 75 percent the jobless rate will rise.

Average daily car sales for the first 10 days of November were down 38 percent from the comparable period a year ago. Unsold autos are piling up on dealer and factory lots, and are expected to grow to 1.5 million vehicles by the end of November.

Auto parts companies are shifting output to export markets initially, the direct effect of

Sabotage barred as crash cause

NAIROBI (UPI) — Investigators today ruled out sabotage in the crash of a Lufthansa Boeing 747 jet which killed 29 passengers and crew.

The investigation could take eight days, two weeks, three weeks, six months," Werner Utter, the chief pilot of Lufthansa told a news conference at Nairobi airport.

"We are only just starting and we have a thousand possibilities to explore."

Probe gains more speed

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (UPI) — Pioneer 11 picked up speed today on its flight through the orbits of Jupiter's three middle moons.

The 570-pound, unmaneuvered spacecraft continued to operate perfectly and was returning color photographs of the planet, which appear on a 21-inch television screen at about the size of a half dollar.

Scientists operating the space vehicle at NASA's Ames Research Center clocked its latest speed at 22,400 miles per hour. The acceleration will increase steadily as the craft approaches the huge gaseous planet.

Pioneer 11 is 7.7 million miles from Jupiter and will reach its closest point Dec. 2 when it will skim above the turbulent cloud belts at 107,000 miles per hour, the fastest speed ever obtained by a man-made object.

Pioneer survives the intense radiation fields, it will split around the planet and be flung into space for a flight to a second major goal, the ringed planet Saturn.

DETROIT (UPI) — The auto industry's unemployment roll swelled by more than thousand today and reports. Chrysler Corp. is preparing to announce another deep manpower cut — this time in its white collar ranks.

The first word on layoffs came from General Motors Corp., which said Wednesday that it will idle 1,100 workers at its Olean, N.Y. Division plant in Anderson, Ind.

A United Auto Workers executive said Chrysler, which already has announced a payroll cut to 70,000 more substantial manpower cuts were coming.

"They said they were going to cut the jobs in salaried personnel during this holiday season," Fraser said.

Chrysler announced two days ago that it plans to shut five of its six U.S.-car assembly plants in the day before Thanksgiving until Jan. 5 — a move that will add $3,000 Chrysler workers to the temporary or permanent list.

United Auto Workers executive said Chrysler, which already has announced a payroll cut to 70,000 more substantial manpower cuts were coming.

Chrysler spokesman said they could neither confirm nor deny the report.

Douglas A. Fraser, the UAW vice-president in charge of the union's Chrysler department, said "a great majority" of the uninsured clerical force would be laid off.

He said Chrysler told him

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — The U.S. Senate race recount entered its fourth day today with incumbent Republican Rep. Louis Wyman's lead dipping to a new low.

Wyman's largest loss came in Woodstock, Vt., where he had won by 100 votes from his total.

At the outset of the recount, Wyman was thought to have led Democrat John Dunphy by 42 votes.

Ninety-four, or 31 per cent of the state's 299 precincts have been recounted.

Assistant Attorney General

David Hess said there had been no evidence of election fraud in any of the towns where substantial discrepancies were discovered.

Airline spokesmen said 98 persons managed to crawl from the wreckage seconds before the fuel tanks exploded. Many suffered only scratches and bruises. Survivors praised the crew for their emergency work.

"Two" American crew were reported killed in the crash but another 14 survived.

Airplane and Lufthansa and West German investigators flew into Kenya today to help local authorities sift through the wreckage of the giant blue yellow and silver airliner which blew up in a muddy field at the end of the runway.

A team from Boeing, the makers of the jumbo jet, also began arriving. It was the first fatal accident involving a 747 since they went into service two years ago.

Utter said the investigators had already split into teams to probe the causes of the crash which officials earlier said were "full of mysteries."

Utter refused to speculate on any "possible" cause — either pilot error, a stall or mechanical failure.

In most cases, officials have attributed major changes in the vote totals to transpositions of figures during late-night counting Nov. 5.

The routine of the recount has replaced the tension that existed between lawyers and observers for each candidate to either throw out or accept the results of their own tally.

Each candidate has been taking frequent breaks from their task Wednesday and leaving their chairs still intact, in sharp contrast to the uninterrupted vigilance evident earlier this week.

Democrat governors lack leaders, unity

HILTON HEAD, S.C. (UPI) — After spending three days under the palm trees declaring the nation's need for leadership and their party's need for unity, the Democratic Governors Conference opened

Wednesday morning.

Ending their first gathering since the voters informed them to do it, the Democratic governors passed a resolution urging congressional action to solve the nation's economic and energy problems.

The resolution, which conference chairman Wendell Anderson of Minnesota said had been informally approved by a majority of the 40 governors present, was drafted to call for "immediate implementation" of controls on wages, prices and profits.

But by the time the resolution got to the floor at the closing session of the conference, more than half of the governors had left for home and a dispute had arisen over the need for such a drastic demand.

Gov. George Busbee of Georgia tried to delete all mention of controls from the resolution, insisting it

And in an "alarming number" of instances, the report declared:

"They have actually encountered abuse and physical danger, including unsanitary conditions, fire hazards, poor or unwholesome food, infestations, adverse drug reactions, overmedication and frequent medication errors."

The Senate subcommittee on Long-Term Care concluded in an "introductory report" that after years of scandal and supposed reform, a majority of the 1 million older Americans in the homes still received inadequate care.

The subcommittee charged despite a congressional mandate to regulate the industry, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare had issued "watered down" standards that were "weak, vague and misleading."

The enforcement of these rules and the state guidelines is "haphazard, fragmented, and generally inadequate," the panel found, even though two-thirds of nursing home revenues come from public funds.

"Millions of older Americans who have already received care in nursing homes have not received maximum help," the

In 1973, the subcommittee reported, there were 22,530 nursing homes in the United States with more than 1.2 million beds, half a million employees and total revenues of $2.7 billion.

The industry — 77 percent of the institutions were said to be operated for profit — is undergoing "startling growth," the panel said, with beds in nursing homes exceeding the number of hospitals.

Holiday turkey costs down, fixings up

By United Press International
Prices for the Thanksgiving dinner turkey are down substantially this year but higher fixings for the rest of the meal are up.

Consumers can thank over-production of turkeys for the lower overall cost of Thanksgiving dinner. But prices are up on everything from sweet potatoes to cranberry sauce.

According to a 4-city survey by UPI, the price of turkey is down more than 20 per cent from last year. The average price of a 10-pound unbasted hen turkey was 63 cents a pound compared with 73 cents a pound last year.

But 5 supermarkets throughout the nation began advertising even cheaper prices for hem—51 cents a pound in many cases—as the first shopping weekend before Thanksgiving approaches.

Larger tom turkeys are substantially less than smaller hens, being advertised at specials as low as 45 cents a pound.

But the other items on the table reflect the general increase in grocery prices in the past year.

UPI survey compared prices of the same eight items a year ago. In each instance, cheaper store brands were used.

Average prices of the 14 representative cities are:

The overall cost of the eight-item dinner—enough to feed a family of four—this year is $8.76 against $9.41 cents last year—but the survey does not include beverages and such items as sugar, which has risen in price more than 300 per cent since last Thanksgiving.

The biggest saving is on a 16-pound turkey; the average survey price being $6.31, a dollar less than last year and even cheaper on advertised specials.

The biggest hike in price is on margarine, selling for 58 cents a pound this year compared with 37 cents last year.

pared to 40 cents last Thanksgiving.

Fresh sweet potatoes are up from 20 cents a pound to 24 cents. A 16-ounce can of peas costs 32 cents compared with 27 cents a year ago. Cranberry sauce is up from 25 cents to 30 cents for a 16-ounce can, although a supermarket in Boston was selling it as low as 9 cents on a special.

A package of 12 brown and serve rolls is selling for 7 cents more than last year up to 37 cents.

last year, and frozen pie shells cost about a penny more apiece.

Sugar cost triples

NEW YORK (UPI) — The retail price of sugar has tripled since last Thanksgiving, adding still more to the cost of traditional cranberry sauce, candied sweet potato and pumpkin and mincemeat.

All four can be made with caloric or noncaloric substitutes.

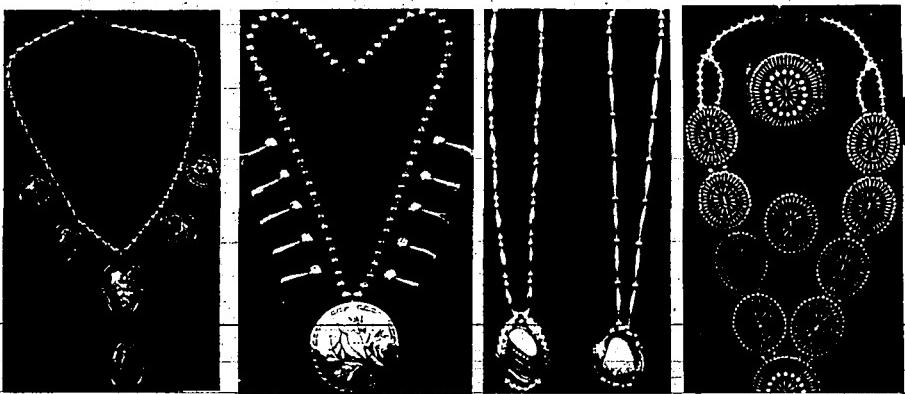

Corn syrup is good with cranberries; it makes a less watery mixture than sugar because it does not draw out the juices from fruit and berries.

Corn syrup, honey, molasses or a noncaloric sweetener can be substituted in sweet potaoties or pies. But remember that noncaloric substitutes will not make a thick sauce for potatoes. Nor will they add as much bulk to sugar does to pie fillings, and some leave a bitter aftertaste in hot foods.

If you use natural no-sugar sweeteners, allow in general 1 cup of corn syrup for each cup of sugar, less honey or molasses.

A Lovelier You

BARGAINS IN CALORIES

By Mary Sue Miller

It has been said that a little knowledge is a dangerous thing. That is certainly true where reducing is concerned. There's more to it than cutting calories.

You must know how to get the most in the way of nutrition from your caloric allotment.

Otherwise you may lose more than you bargain for. Your skin, hair and vitality can take a dive, along with your weight.

To stave off side effects, daily rations should supply about 60 grams of protein, 1 gram of calcium, and quantities of vitamins.

For instance, vitamin A is wanted in the amount of 6000 units. The whys are these: protein acts to keep the body in repair and to fortify its energy. Calcium works against nervous tension, among more familiar performances. Vitamin A lovesifies skin and hair.

Getting those nutrients on a low calorie count is not a guessing game. Who would guess, for example, that cottage cheese contains twice as much protein and a fourth more calcium than cream cheese? It does, and at a saving of 85 calories per ounce. You could not imagine that one large raw carrot offers 5000 units of Vitamin A, the daily requirement, for only 21 calories. Just so, in all groups of food there is a range of values. To find the best you need only study a nutrition and calorie chart. If you find that dull going, try reading between the lines. What will you see there? A trimmer and lovelier you, that's what.

POCKET CALORIE COUNTER
Do you really know the calorie counts of the foods you eat? Our POCKET CALORIE COUNTER tells the score at a glance. It also gives a diet plan—a way to eat and slim! Planning a wedding?

Your wedding may be the most important event in your life. We wish you every happiness.

In order to obtain the best possible news and picture coverage of your engagement and marriage a few newspaper rules should be kept in mind.

Time deadlines are important. Engagement stories and pictures must be run in the paper before the wedding. Space is short, and engagement stories take some time to process, so it helps to bring in or mail the information as early as possible.

Pictures of the wedding must be received by the Times-News within two weeks after the wedding. Beyond two weeks, wedding pictures will not be printed. Remind your photographer of the deadline.

After the two-week deadline, wedding stories will be printed, but often in shortened form as space permits. After three months, wedding stories will no longer be printed.

There is no charge for printing wedding and engagement pictures and stories.

Couple recites vows

TWIN FALLS Sally Winterholder and Lynn Gardeks were married Nov. 1 at Our Savior Lutheran Church.

Rev. Eugene Tjarks performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with candles.

The bride was escorted by her father, Walter Newman, Pocatello. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

Susan Newman, sister of the bride, Robin, Hawaii, was maid of honor.

Kids from Twin Falls were ring-bearers. Steve and Brian Winterholder, sons of the bride, were ring-bearers. Steve and Bruce Quale were candlelighters.

Joyce Dunn was in charge of cake, punch and coffee served by Mrs. James Moore. Mrs. Mae Gardski, mother of the bridegroom, Mrs. Floyd Miller, Jr., and Mrs. Larry Johnson cared for the gulls.

The wedding cake was baked by Mrs. Shirley Berg.

Harry Moore and Mrs. Barbara Ward took wedding pictures.

Kerr Co. to reimburse consumers for food loss

WASHINGTON (UPI) The Kerr Co., responding to consumer complaints about faulty home canning lids, has told the government it will reimburse home canners who lost food as a consequence.

William A. Kerr, president of the firm, told President Ford's consumer adviser, Virginia Knauer, he regretted the problem but was sure it had been solved and would not happen again. He said the company would pay back consumers both for the cost of the defective lids and for the dollar value of any food lost.

He said the details would be announced later.

Mrs. Knauer's office had been considering launching a full-scale investigation and public hearing into both the lid failures and the general shortage of home canning equipment this summer and fall.

Kerr originally blamed the problem on consumer inexperience, even though many of the complaints were from veteran canners. The company told Mrs. Knauer, however, that a new sealing compound was to blame.

The firm announced the refund plans last week in Los Angeles.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: When an interested person asks a question that you consider too personal to answer, what's so smart about not giving a simple, like, "I thought it was any of your business." I'd tell you "or" "If you'll forgive me for not answering, I'll forgive you for not asking."

Does it boost the reply's ego to imply that the questioner was stupid? How would you like to be disarmed by such a remark?

What's wrong with a simple reply like, "I appreciate your interest, but I'd rather not talk about it," and then switching the subject to something less disturbing?

CIVILIZED

Nosy questions

DEAR CIV: Why thank the questioner for his "interest" when his interest is clearly nosiness? ("Why did your daughter and her husband get divorced?" Or, "What's your husband's take-home pay?" Or, "Do you dye your hair?") How does one really "appreciate such interest?"

You're 50 per cent right, however. "I'd rather not talk about it" is an adequate reply.

DEAR ABBY: I fully understand the reasons why first cousins should not marry in case where there may be children, but in my case that is impossible because I am 56 and he (my first cousin) is 70.

We want to marry, but have been told we cannot because it is against the law in the state in which we live. Is there any state where we can marry? We will go anywhere. It is absurd to prohibit marriage under the circumstances and we will take it to the Supreme Court if necessary. Why should the law make laws of its own? reasonable people who want to spend the rest of their lives together.

OLD LOVERS

DEAR LOVERS: Before you take anything to the Supreme Court, talk to a lawyer. Laws differ in various states, and they sometimes change suddenly, too. I quit "practicing law" a long time ago.

DEAR ABBY: In response to that mother whose child got sick after she saw a doctor coming toward her in a white coat, you said the doctor was guilty of unprofessional conduct and deserved a reprimand from his county medical society. Bull!

A doctor's time is far too precious to spend trying to humor a spoiled brat.

You goofed. Ten lashes for Abby with a wet tongue depressor.

N.J.

DEAR N.J. Before you reach for that tongue depressor, let's review the bidding: The doctor entered the training room and is greeted by a patient, a hysterical little girl. The doctor growls, says, "Who needs this?" and storms out of the room. He returns to address the mother in a nasty tone, "Take her home, and don't bring her back unless she's really sick!"

Many children are frightened at the sight of a man (or woman) in a white coat because of a painful previous experience. They aren't "spoiled brats," they are sensitive little people, and deserve to be treated with kindness and understanding.

DEAR ABBY: Is there any legal limit to the number of times a person can get married?

COUNTING

DEAR COUNTING: Not if you remember to get divorced between "I do's."

Lutheran youths set operetta

TWIN FALLS — Students from Immanuel Lutheran grade school will stage an operetta at the school Friday and Saturday evenings.

The students will perform "White Gypsy," a two-act operetta, at 8 p.m. both nights at the school located at Shoup and Blake Streets in Twin Falls.

"Gypsies" will fill the stage with humor and gay music during the presentation for a cost of $1 for adults, 50 cents for children and $2.50 for families. One ticket is good for both performances.

The young actors and actresses have been practicing during their lunch hours since early September. Since the beginning of the week, the cast has gathered in full costume to run through lines and musical numbers in preparation for the final performance.

The operetta is the third annual performance sponsored by the Twin Falls Junior Music Club. Parents of the students and music club members are assisting in all phases of the production.

Principal characters in the operetta will be portrayed by Derek Pike, Heidi Schorzman, Thaete Raynette Blessin, Barry Blessin, Shante

Lampe, Tim Westermann, Sharon Jones, Kristy Walters, Tim Westermann, Sharon Jones, Kristy

Walters. Also appearing in the operetta will be Vicki Roberts, Doug Laerman, Brian Pike, Scott Brown, Mark Mayland, David Clark, Kristin Roberts, Janet Malberg, Debbie Pike, Pamela Westerman, Candy Puhlik, Michelle Mayland, Karen Walters, Lori Rueter, Carrie Lindner and Karen Walters.

Dancers will include Nina Duncan, Amy Pike, Barbara Rabe, Kim Winterford, Holly Schorzman, Pam Stobbs, Karen Roberts, Natalie Elfers, Karen Walters, Amy Laerman and Lisa Pike.

Singing in the chorus will be Monica Munyan, Mary Eskridge, Michelle Elfers, Kerry Toliver, Diana Eacker, Monida Hutchinson, Julie Pike, Kaylyn Marsh and Holly Brechin, as well as all the dancers.

Adults assisting in the production include Mrs. Ben Roberts, Mrs. Keith Laerman, Mrs. Lewis Elfers, Mrs. Harvey Lampe, Mrs. Eldon Walters, Mrs. Edna Pike, Mrs. Dave Schorzman and Mrs. Dean Rader.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Remember the visitor to New York who, when a native offered to sell him the Brooklyn bridge, remarked, "You must be joking for an idiot. The real owner has already contacted me."

You can still find him in almost any bridge game.

East won the club lead with his king and tried to cash the ace. South ruffed, and king came with the king of trumps; led the jack of clubs and carefully discarded his eight of hearts after East played low.

West was in with the queen and couldn't wait to plunk down his seven of hearts. South took his ace, cashed the ace of trumps, discarded his seven of hearts with dummy's king and got rid of his two diamonds on the jack of hearts and 10 of clubs.

What was West trying to buy? The Brooklyn Bridge?

It was the number of looking-at-that-jack-of-hearts in dummy. Give South the ace of diamonds and small hearts, South would surely have planned to play West for the heart queen rather than the diamond queen.

What he really wanted should have received that East held the diamond ace and that South was trying a swindle.

A—Pass. A double would be for business here since you might have trap-planned with strong spades.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Imagine your partner holds two hearts over West's one motcup. East holds two spades. What do you do now?

Hint

To thaw cheese properly, leave it in its wrapper and let it thaw slowly in the refrigerator. This is the best way of preventing flavor loss and moisture.

Researchers study beer, cancer links

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two scientists say they have found a statistical relationship between beer drinking and cancer—but warned that does not necessarily mean beer causes the disease.

Statistics from 41 U.S. states and 24 foreign countries show that regions with the highest per capita beer consumption generally also have high rates of rectal and intestinal cancer, the two researchers said.

The findings by Dr. James E. Enstrom and Dr. Norman E. Brewster of the University of Washington were published in the "Journal of the National Cancer Institute."

Enstrom said the researchers looked for a relationship between cancer and consumption of beer, wine, liquor and cigarettes.

They found no correlation between any cancer and wine drinking, he said, but the statistics used were for 1960, when there were not many wine drinkers in the United States.

They found a relationship between hard liquor consumption and cancer of the esophagus in men, Enstrom said, but found many more statistical relationships involving beer.

Checked against 20 varieties of cancer for males and 19 for women, studies showed more beer as drunk had higher than average incidences of cancer of the large intestine, stomach, rectum, and kidneys in both sexes. Liver and breast in males and bladder in males, the study showed.

In the states with the lowest beer consumption — South Carolina, Alabama and Arkansas — the average resident drank about 26 quarts a year. The death rate from rectal cancer in those states is about 3 per 100,000 persons.

Rhode Island and New York, where per capita beer consumption is more than three times as much — about 39 quarts a year — have the highest rectal cancer mortality rates in the nation, about 10 per 100,000, or more than three times the death rate in the three southern states.

The same general pattern appeared in statistics from the 24 foreign countries surveyed, they said.

Wisconsin has the highest per capita beer consumption, an average 100 quarts a year, and ranked just behind New York and Rhode Island in deaths from rectal cancer, about 9 per 100,000.

California, with 59 quarts average, had seven deaths per 10,000.

A weakness of the study, the authors noted, was that it is based on statewide averages, not directly on beer drinkers.

Act of revenge causes man's arrest

ST. ETIENNE, France (UPI) — An immigrant from the Ivory Coast who suspected his French wife of sleeping with his cousin was arrested Tuesday on a charge of raping the cousin's wife in an act of revenge.

Police said Ossée Yao, 22, was accused of raping his cousin's wife, a Frenchwoman, after luring her to his apartment on the pretense of showing her a way to make 100-franc $20 notes reproduce themselves.

Man bites man in-line

PETALUMA, Calif. (UPI) — Police are looking for a man who bit another man in the mouth when he was in a restaurant.

Police said Tuesday that a felon charged with assault with a deadly weapon would be tried again in court.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — A rare white lion cub has been born at Florida's Lion Country Safari — the third according to officials, to be born in captivity and the second born here.

Lion Country officials said the cub, named "Sukari," Swahili for sugar, was reportedly born sometime after the 640-acre wildlife preserve closed on Nov. 10, but officials with held announcing its birth while they observed the animal during "the first critical days" of its life.

Sukari, a fourth-generation relative of Elisa, the famed lioness of the "Born Free" motion picture, was born to a normal-sized year-old female named Jill. Another male cub also was born and the two have been removed to the park's animal hospital, officials said.

The world's first known white lion cub, a female named "Lucky," was also born at Lion Country nearly seven years ago.

THE BON
MARCHE

today in brief

2nd body identified

CASCADE, Idaho (UPI) — The second of two bodies found earlier this month alongside Highway 35 near Donnelly has been identified by Bonner County authorities.

Coroner Burton Walker said Wednesday the man was identified as John Wayne Bradford, 40, whose family lives in Brownwood, Minn.

The bodies of Bradford and Edward Arnold, 24, were found near a rest area along the highway Saturday.

Police have arrested Thomas Eugene Grech, 31, and a 17-year-old Lewiston girl in connection with the deaths.

Bonding companies pay

MURPHYS, Idaho (UPI) — Owyhee County has recovered $10,000 from companies which bonded Mrs. Sadie Eisenhart, the former county treasurer.

Mrs. Eisenhart, treasurer from 1951 to June 29, 1972, pleaded guilty last Nov. 20 to embezzlement. The sum recovered from the bonding companies is $1,612 more than the county lost and the commissioners said the amount recovered includes interest.

After she pleaded guilty Mrs. Eisenhart was put on supervised probation for three years.

Nampa man challenges police

NAMPA, Idaho (UPI) — A Nampa man is challenging the power of police to fingerprint and mug him on a misdemeanor charge.

Allen Vayles, 49, appealed to the Idaho Supreme Court contending that the Nampa City Code under which he was arrested was "vague and uncertain."

Vayles was arrested last December and charged with being drunk in a motor vehicle. But he contends that he should not be fingerprinted or mugged and also challenges the city ordinance stating that being drunk in a motor vehicle is a misdemeanor.

District Judge Edward Lodge held Sept. 30 that there was no violation of constitutional rights requiring fingerprinting and mugging and the city code on being drunk in a motor vehicle did not conflict with Idaho laws.

Meet set for lawyers

BORIS, Idaho (UPI) — The Idaho State Bar will hold sessions for Idaho lawyers Saturday and Sunday to teach them the changes in court procedures brought about by adoption of new rules.

The sessions will be held at the Downtown Motel.

The new rules of civil procedure will go into effect Jan. 1. They will effect substantial changes in court procedure in all Idaho courts.

Mental health patient brings action

BORIS, Idaho (UPI) — A mental health patient at the state prison has brought legal action to get rid of chains which he claims are detrimental to his rehabilitation.

Kernit T. Neilson has been issued a writ of habeas corpus and will appear in Fourth District Court at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Nelson was found innocent of murdering a woman at Pocatello in 1971 by reason of mental defect.

When he makes twice-weekly visits to a psychologist he is bound in handcuffs, has a chain around his midsection and is put in leg irons. Dr. Virgil Sterling, director of the mental health rehabilitation unit, contends, according to a brief filed with the court, that the mechanical restraints are harmful to Neilson's treatment.

Quick AF Dam decision asked

BURLEY — Despite not knowing how much the project will cost them, American Falls Reservoir spaceholders were told Wednesday by the Bureau of Reclamation to decide by next week whether or not to proceed with the project.

Rod Vissia, Boise, representing the bureau, spoke to spaceholders in Burley briefing them on the proposed project to date.

He also told them that if the project were to get underway in time for construction to start by April or May, 1975, the boards of directors of the irrigation districts holding space at the reservoir would have to decide by the end of next week if they were in or out of the project.

In reviewing the history of the proposal to replace the deteriorating dam, Vissia reminded the spaceholders that in 1973 two bills were introduced in Congress to replace the structure. One bill was for federal construction of the dam, however the spaceholders were successful in lobbying for a bill that authorized non-federal construction.

TF bank contributions

TWIN FALLS Bank and Trust chairman Curtis Entenright presents a check for $11,000 to W.W. Stivers, United Way campaign drive chairman for 1975. The check represents the contributions of the bank and its employees, all of whom contributed to the United Way drive.

United Way reaches 62% mark on goal for '75

TWIN FALLS — Hoping to complete the 1975 fund drive by the end of the month, United Way has now reached about 62 per cent of its goal.

Dari Gleed, United Way executive director, said Wednesday the campaign thus far has collected $107,000. The charity and community service financing agency hopes to collect $140,000 by the time the campaign is finished.

This year's total is slightly ahead of last year's figure for the same time of $81,274. Gleed said the goal last year was $125,000 and that $86,000 was raised.

Gleed also said that rural Twin Falls County residents have been running ahead of rural collections last year. So far this year the rural units have collected $11,000 compared to last year's figure of $7,000.

"It appears right now that the campaign will exceed last year's figure," which was a record, and probably break the $100,000 figure, Gleed said.

Other top contributors, according to Gleed, have been:

K mart and employees, $1,415; First Federal Savings and Loan and employees, $2,120; School District 411 employees, $2,500; Sierra Life Insurance and employees, $2,420; College of Southern Idaho employees, $2,420; Twin Falls Hospital Clinic and employees, $1,500; Parry, Robertson, Daly and Larson and employees, $1,300; and Agnew Seed Co. and employees, $1,202.

Gleed also said that rural Twin Falls County residents have been running ahead of rural collections last year. So far this year the rural units have collected $11,000 compared to last year's figure of $7,000.

"It appears right now that the campaign will exceed last year's figure," which was a record, and probably break the $100,000 figure," Gleed said.

Deadline set on AF dam agreement

Nielsen confirmed he had mentioned a Dec. 1 deadline, but he said it only applied to the current negotiation proposal made by Idaho Power.

He said the proposal contained in the letter was an attempt by the company to reconcile the differences between Idaho Power and the spaceholders.

Another of the negotiators, Ted Diehl, Jerome, said the term "sulfurium" is a misunderstanding. He said the Idaho Power letter indicated the company is willing to concede to some of the latest proposals put forth by the negotiating team.

The company would like an answer by Dec. 1, but that doesn't constitute an ultimatum, he said.

According to Diehl, the demands imposed by the power company and the Bureau of Reclamation are necessary to complete all the contracts for construction and equipment to start the next year.

Diehl also said a decision by spaceholders to continue with the project is contingent upon a favorable financial picture for the spaceholders.

William Holden, an Idaho Falls attorney who heads the spaceholders' negotiating team, said the committee is still considering the power company's proposal.

Holden said the negotiations would meet with Idaho Power again this week, but he would not comment on the negotiations nor the power company's proposals until a final agreement was reached.

Some sort of announcement could be made by the end of the week, he said.

On Wednesday the spaceholders had been urged by the Bureau of Reclamation to make a decision by the end of November on whether or not to commit themselves to the project.

So far the spaceholders have not been told whether their negotiations with Idaho Power is off.

Even the president of the American Falls Reservoir District was not informed of the offer, John Barker, said he had not seen the letter and was not aware of Idaho Power's latest offer.

If the negotiations or the power firm don't reach an agreement acceptable to most spaceholders and if several other conditions aren't met, a number of irrigation districts said they may tell the BOR they won't be participating in the project.

Curt Darrington, Burley head of the Burley Irrigation District, said on the project with the BOR the consensus of members present at a meeting agreed they had too little information to decide whether to stay in the project.

Even the president of the American Falls Reservoir District was not informed of the offer, John Barker, said he had not seen the letter and was not aware of Idaho Power's latest offer.

Estimated cost of the project has risen from $20.6 million when the project was first proposed to $40.4 million. The water users' share had risen from less than $2 million to over $20 million today.

Former editor, staff of Ketchum newspaper start new weekly

KETCHUM — A new weekly newspaper, the "Idaho Mountain Express" will be published Wednesday at Ketchum.

The paper, Blaine County's third weekly, will be produced by the former editor and six staff members of Ketchum Tomorrow.

Steve Lathrop, former editor and board chairman of Ketchum Tomorrow, was fired Sunday, sparking resignations of the entire staff.

Since Sunday, Idaho Mountain Express staff has moved into an office building in the Gividen Annex. Lathrop said Steve Glaab is letting the staff use the office for free.

Financing has been gathered, Lathrop said, to get the paper going. The staff is in the process of selling advertising.

The directors of Ketchum Tomorrow said Tuesday they have lost no advertising and expect to lose none to the new weekly.

Lathrop said his new publication "is not an underground newspaper. However, we are not going to skirt away from controversy."

The new editor, said the tabloid would strength all of Blaine County instead of a strictly Ketchum-Sun Valley oriented publication. The new paper probably will include feature stories more and some in-depth reporting, Lathrop said.

"We think there's more to this community than just what goes on in planning and zoning meetings," he said.

"We have access to everything we need," Lathrop said in regards to equipment needed to put the paper out. The paper will be printed at the Burley Remodeler, he said, the same place that is printing Ketchum Tomorrow.

According to Lathrop, newspaper is available to the Idaho Mountain Express for at least the end of the year. He said it has been too early to secure a contract for newsprint any length of time ahead.

Lathrop said advertisers in the area have given support to the new publication. "Several have expressed an interest to go with us," he said.

The Idaho Mountain Express will be owned by the staff, Lathrop said, rather than the shareholder setup with a board of directors at Ketchum Tomorrow.

He said the idea is essentially to give an equal percentage to all staff members.

Lathrop was associate to the publisher of a quarterly work journal, he said. He received a B.A. degree from Yale University. He served as editor and associate editor for a little over a year at Ketchum Tomorrow.

2258 Addison Avenue East (Corner of Eastland Drive and Addison Avenue) Twin Falls

CSI hosts Walla Walla in season opener Saturday

Coach Boyd Grant puts his College of Southern Idaho Golden Eagles on the firing line for the first time Saturday night and even he is looking forward to the results.

The Eagles, with star players Bob Durham of Twin Falls and Lon Trotter of Oxnard, Calif., returning, will take on Walla

Community College at 8 p.m. in the CSI gymnasium.

Coach Grant has had a look at his Eagles, watching them defeat the AAU Taco Bandits

last week in a benefit game. But he still isn't sure.

"I'm always a poor judge of my own team," he says. "I liked the way we worked on defense and our team played. Everyone was willing to give up the ball."

"But I also feel that some of the AAU players are not in very good condition yet. In the second half some of them kinda slowed up and that made our defense look good. So right now I can only say for certain that our players will work on defense."

"I think our defense will get a real test against Walla Walla. Their coach feels this is the best offensive team he's ever had — that's a direct quote from their coach. I know they have some pretty good players. I've seen the 6-5 all-state player they have from Alabama and I know he can play," Coach Grant said.

Walla Walla has its second and third-leading scorers back from last year, including Kevin Costa who was an outstanding player and transferred to Nevada-Reno last spring.

The Bears will be about 6-5 on the buck line with guards in the 6-foot area. Coach Grant is expecting a rebounding trio of two 6-5s and one 6-6 from Walla Walla.

He also remained unsure of just who will start for his Eagles. Ken Davis, fresh from Detroit, was ill early in the week but should be able to go.

Of interest from an offensive standpoint, sophomore guard Gary Yoder, a transfer from University of Mississippi, still hasn't missed a shot as a Golden Eagle. He was seven for seven against Taco, most of them in the 13 to 20-foot range.

BLISS — With four returning lettermen and four likely looking prospects off last year's JV ace teams, the Bliss Bears plan to improve on their 1973-74失敗的赛季。

Actually, it just about has to be downhill for the Bears and Coach Allen Petersen to improve on the 0-16 mark of last season. Despite the losing record, Bliss did show strength on a couple of occasions.

Coach Petersen would like to have a little more height, but that's a common feeling among basketball coaches. The idea of needing more manpower is important.

Heading the list of returnees is 5'9 senior Sam Strand who has picked up two varsity letters. But Strand also is the only senior on the club. The remaining seven men will be drawn from the junior class.

The lettermen there are Jay Lenker, 5'6 post man; and Andy Asena, who is 6'1 and also plays center. Strand is 5'8 and Kelly Schroeder at 5'5 gave experience at guard.

The juniors coming up from last year's JV ace teams are Rod Hess, 6'1 swing man; Rich Bauer, 5'8 guard; Dan Manning, 5'6 guard; and Steve Hansen, 5'11 forward.

The Bliss schedule includes Dec. 4, College City at Bliss; Dec. 13, Bliss at Rimrock; Dec. 14, Bliss at Twin Falls Juniors; Dec. 19, Bliss at Gooding State; Jan. 3, Camas County at Bliss; Jan. 4, Richfield; at BLISS — RETURNING STARTER Lon Trotter eyes the bucket during practice. Trotter, a sophomore from Oxnard, Calif., is expected to open his second year as a starter Saturday night when College of Southern Idaho hosts Walla Walla Community College in the basketball season opener for both clubs.

Mere postponement

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Federal, state, county and city tax officials agreed Wednesday to subordinate their share of gate receipts from the Birmingham Americans' World Football League playoff game so the team can cover expenses and player's salaries.

The Americans, owing more than $100,000 in back taxes to the four agencies, will host the winner of the Southern California-Hawaiian game at Legion Field Nov. 27 in the semifinals of the WFL playoffs.

Team owner Bill Putnam said after sales taxes and game expenses the players would share in 70 per cent of the gate receipts.

"I want to publicly thank the four agencies for their cooperation in allowing us to play the game here," Putnam said. "The Americans thus will be able to see their team in action and offer their loyal support during the season. It's only right that a playoff game be held at Legion Field."

Carey to have familiar look

News tips
733-0931

CAREY — A lot of familiar faces returning from a near-jinx basketball team put Coach John Taylor and the Carey Panthers among the contenders in the Northside basketball conference this year.

Coach Taylor lost only guard

Marc Hansen from last year's 15-8 team that carried the district tournament into an extra session before losing out to eventual state champion Camas County.

Tallest of the returnees is 6-5 Jerry Ivie who has been the team's leading scorer and rebounder the past two years. And Ivie has slimmed down a little and picked up better quickness and agility.

After Ivie, Coach Taylor still can call on five senior lettermen. These include 5-6 guard Mike Peterson, 5-11 forward Jim Barton, 6-0 forward Raymond Bane, 5-7 guard Howard Royal and 5-10 forward Rick Reay.

The name Ivie could be a little monotonous to other coaches — since 6-4 sophomore David Ivie joins brother Jerry on the varsity. Ivie is credited with leading the Jayvee team to the conference title last year as a freshman.

Coach Taylor has provided by 6-2 center Darrell Green, a transfer from Shoshone.

Two men looking forward first varsity letters are seniors Fred Peck, 5-8 guard, and 5-9 forward Jerry Wever.

The Carey schedule includes Nov. 29, Carey at North Gem; Nov. 30, Carey at Rockland; Dec. 6, Oakley at Carey; Dec. 14, Rockland at Carey, and Dec. 21, Dietrich at Rimrock.

Jan. 3, Carey at Dietrich; Jan. 10, Bliss at Dietrich; Jan. 11, Dietrich at Camas County; Jan. 17, Dietrich at Richfield; Jan. 21, Dietrich at Carey; Jan. 23, Dietrich at Bliss; Jan. 26, Richfield at Dietrich; and Jan. 30, Camas County at Dietrich.

Feb. 1, Rockland at Dietrich; Feb. 4, Dietrich at Richfield; Feb. 7, Carey at Dietrich; Feb. 11, Dietrich at Rockland; Feb. 14, Carey at Rockland; and Feb. 15, Carey at Rockland.

Lack of height to hurt Blue Devils

Lari Perron, 5-1 sophomore, the Blue Devils posted a 4-16 record last year but returned three of the five starters.

The Dietrich schedule includes Nov. 29, Dietrich at Clark invitational; Dec. 6, Dietrich at Castleford; Dec. 10, Dietrich at Rockland; Dec. 14, Castleford at Dietrich; and Dec. 21, Dietrich at Rimrock.

Emotion always part of Ohio State-Michigan game

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Saturday's nationally televised Ohio State-Michigan game, which decides the Big Ten-championship race, the Rose Bowl bid and possibly the national championship, will be no more emotional than any other Buckeye-Wolverine encounter.

"Every Ohio State-Michigan game has tremendous emotion," Hayes said, when asked following Wednesday's practice session if this meeting might have more. "This one will have no more or no less than last year's game. But it has emotion. If it didn't, you fellows wouldn't be here this early."

Hayes worked his No. 1 offense until nearly 10 hours and 20 minutes with no rough stuff in the cool, chilly weather, but kept the second-quarter shortened for the full two hours.

"We tried to go over all phases of our game earlier this week," Hayes said, explaining that the reason for this was "to be more thorough. We've been making some mistakes lately."

It was noted by one of the ever-growing number of writers gathering for the game that both the Buckeyes and Wolverines have been exceptionally strong in the third quarter this year.

"I don't think I can explain it," Hayes said, but after some thought said, "Let me try."

"He credited the strong third quarter showings on blocking adjustments at the half."

"Admittedly, we're stronger than most of our opponents," Hayes said, "and by the time we get our blocking adjustments made, we go like gangbusters."

In the first ten games, Michigan has outscored its opponents 80-0, while the Buckeyes have a 107-3 edge in the third quarter.

Hayes was asked what effect the absence of Michigan's outstanding senior quarterback, Tom Franklin, might have on the game. Franklin, bothered much of the season by a series of injuries and illness, re-injured an ankle in last week's 31-0 win over Purdue.

"I don't think it would alter their game plan any," Hayes replied, "but I do think they are a better team in there."

Michigan, ranked second in the nation, will bring a 10-0 record, and 7-0 conference mark into the game. The Buckeyes, ranked No. 1 until being upset two weeks ago, 19-13 by Michigan State, is 9-1 and 6-1.

A victory by Ohio State would give the Buckles a share of the conference title, probably the Rose Bowl bid, although that would have to be voted on by the conference athletic directors, and a chance at the national title.

A Michigan win would mean an outright Big Ten championship, an automatic bowl invitation, plus a shot at the national title.

Hayes was asked about a Wednesday editorial in the Ohio State school paper, "The Lantern," called "Big Time Football Strangles Academia."

"Yeah, they give us a great big boost the week of the game," Hayes said, "but I hear where they say we're hurting the university," he continued.

"But what else brings such enthusiasm?"

Asked if it was a common practice of the Lautern to blast the athletic program, Hayes said, "Frankly, I don't know. I don't read it that often."

Blazers must play in series as only hope to get back pay

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — The Florida Blazers figure if they quit now, they'll never get paid.

That's why they kept on pounding, getting ready for the World Football League's play-off game against the Philadelphia Stars.

"We're playing in the playoffs because we have no choice," said defensive end John'Brien. "We'll never see our money if we leave now."

The Blazers, winners of the league's East Division with a 14-6 record, haven't received a full paycheck in 12 weeks. And as late as the day before the game they didn't even know whether they were working for.

A group of local investors reportedly agreed to purchase the franchise a couple of weeks ago at a reported $1 million.

The Blazers, who have half of which would go to pay off old debts. The players Wednesday were still waiting for their pay.

A club spokesman denied reports Wednesday that the purchasers of the club were backed by Arabian oil money.

The Floridians also were upset at the last minute reshuffling which pitted them against Philadelphia, third in the East Division with a 9-11 record.

Quarterback Bob Davis said that two weeks ago "there was no doubt in my mind that we would win the World Bowl if we played to our capabilities."

"But right now our chances are not good. We have tremendous dissension on the team. The attitude of a minority of players is not good and we'll be lucky to beat it. We've come too far to quit now."

He said "the pride factor" is keeping the team going.

Even though the playoff is small and we're forced to play a team like Philadelphia, you only get one chance to win the first World Bowl title — even if it's tainted.

"We realize the financial

Sun will play for loop's sake

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) —

Players for the Southern California Sun, without a paycheck for a week, Wednesday reaffirmed their vote to meet Hawaii in a first-round playoff game Thursday night, despite the survival of the World Football League was at stake.

The Sun players called a news conference Wednesday amid speculation they would refuse to participate in the on-again-off-again playoff game because of the small amount of money they would make.

"We have to do what we can as players to make sure there is a league next year," said

Sun player representative Dave Williams.

"We feel the future is bright. If we play in the playoffs, then we all have a chance to get our back pay and look forward to future work."

The Sun players, whose team was last in the WFL Western Division ahead of the Hawaiian, voted to participate in the playoffs last weekend during a 30-minute locker-room meeting. They were awaiting their paychecks for the second time this month.

According to Williams, the decision wasn't a matter of a weekly paycheck, but rather of league survival.

"We realize the financial problems and demands placed on the owners of our team," Williams said. "We also realize that all these problems can and will be solved with continued effort by management and players to cooperate and work together."

In Tuesday night's first round playoff game with the Hawaiian, the players will receive 50 per cent of the gate receipts. The money will be split with 40 per cent going to the winner and 40 per cent to the loser.

The winner of the Sun-Hawaiian contest will meet the Birmingham Americans, who drew a first-round bye, Nov. 27.

Vikings got lucky when forced to take Foreman in NFL draft

NEW YORK (UPI) — We

nicked him," Jerry Rumph, the Minnesota Viking director of player personnel, said smugly.

Jerry was speaking of how the Vikings came up with Chuck Foreman, whom the Vikings selected for Foreman.

Foreman became the 1971

NFL draft. The 6-2, 216-pound Foreman had been a tight end, a running back, a corner back and a wide receiver at the University of Minnesota but Minnesota had their sights set on Sam Cunningham or Otto Armstrong. When Cunningham and Armstrong were taken, the Vikings selected Foreman.

Foreman, who became the 1971

National Football Conference Rookie of the Year, was rushed for 801 yards, caught 37 passes for 362 yards and scored six touchdowns.

Today, through ten games, Foreman has rushed 161 times for 667 yards, made 39 receptions for 455 yards, and has scored 13 touchdowns to lead all NFL receivers with 78 points.

That's how lucky you can get.

BSU wants to beat Idaho for tuneup

BOISE, Idaho The Boise State University Broncos football team has gained a spot in the 1974 Division II national playoffs against Central Michigan, but they still have an important game in hosting the Idaho Vandals on Saturday.

The in-state rivalry between the Broncos and Vandals will begin at 1 p.m. at the Boise State Stadium.

"We are pleased to be in the playoffs, but we still have that game with the Vandals on Saturday," commented Bronco head coach Tom Knapp.

The Idaho Vandals are 2-7-1 on the year and 2-1 in the Big Sky while the Broncos who have won the league title are 9-1 on the year and 5-0 in the league. The Vandals also carry a major distinction in that they are the last team to beat the Broncos in Bronco Stadium.

They did it in 1972 by a 22-21 score.

That game was also the last Big Sky football game the Broncos lost.

The schools now stand at 21-19 in favor of the Broncos.

BSU won 42-14 in 1971, lost 22-21 in 1972 and beat the Vandals 20-14 last year.

By a 5-2 margin last year.

Boise State wrapped up its second straight league title last Saturday in Missoula by defeating the Montana Grizzlies 56-42.

"I was very pleased with our two victories in the State of Montana," Knapp said. BSU also defeated Montana State in Bozeman, 40-37. It's certainly a great pleasure to be com-pions of the Big Sky. It is something each one players will treasure.

"Now, it's the University of Idaho to wrap up our regular season. I'm sure this is a game where we'll all be excited. The Vandals have a good offense and very sound defense. I'm looking forward to a great contest between the two schools," Knapp said.

Idaho's poor defense—the best in the Big Sky Conference—will undergo its most severe test of the season. The Vandals are allowing just 79 yards a game to their opponents via the air lanes while BSU's passing machine is averaging 335.2 yards a game.

The Idaho offense, which is mainly of a rushing nature, is averaging 237.8 yards a game.

The Vandals also carry

"delighted to hear" that club owners had not determined yet to reduce roster numbers from 47 to 44 as originally planned. Garvey said in New York that he had received "quite" such a memorandum in a letter sent to him by John Thompson, head of the NFL Management Council.

However, the Council countered that Garvey had placed a false interpretation on the letter and that Thompson simply was informing him that the joke was, "they're really constrained what," said Garvey said Wednesday. "We got a letter from Thompson saying the 47-man squad was a temporary expedient because of the strike. They didn't do my charge at all. All I can read into the statement is 'we said it, but we don't really mean it.' It's a hush-hum response really."

When he was reminded that the purpose of the letter was simply to advise him that the status quo remained, Garvey said, "Why didn't they write that in the letter?" They wrote that in the letter, he said and said it goes back to '76 if they didn't mean it. I'll accept their response. I'm delighted to hear."

The fundamental point remains, though, that the depth of the playing roster should be determined at the bargaining table, not at some owners' meeting." He said no date has been set yet for a meeting between owners and players but "I hope it's fairly soon."

Garvey was lauded by the play and the Nets increased their margin gradually as the Spirits seemed to give up.

Nets drop Spirits

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) Marvin Barnes was missing from the Spirit of St. Louis' lineup with a bad cold and the New York Nets took advantage to take a 100-99 NBA victory Wednesday night with a scoring spurt in the final two minutes.

The Spirits seemed to play inspired basketball, trying to compensate for the absence of their leading scorer and rebounder, the 6-foot-9 center from Providence, who was with the team at its hotel earlier in the day but never showed up for the game, leaving club officials puzzled.

Julius Erving capped a comeback for the final spurt when the Nets trailed by as many as six points in the first period. Erving picked up a loose ball and driving three-quarters of the length of the court with 1:27 left in the game to give New York a 102-101 lead at the final gun.

Erving was lauded by the play and the Nets increased their margin gradually as the Spirits seemed to give up.

Skins pick up back

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Redskins announced Wednesday—the acquisition of running back Doug Cunningham from San Francisco, who had played him on the waiver list.

Cunningham, a six-foot, 195-pounder from Mississippi, was the 49ers sixth round draft choice in 1967. He was also used as a kick-off and punt return specialist.

Redskins coach and general manager George Allen said Cunningham has the experience and is a fine blocker and pass receiver. This is essential in our scheme for the rest of the season.

"He is the experienced type of player we like to have. I played against him while with the Rams and I know what he can do. I cannot emphasize enough his blocking and running ability," Allen said.

Terry Bledsoe, the director of information for the Management Council, said he had "no way of knowing" if the matter of roster strength could be an issue of negotiation.

"I expect the disposition of this would be a matter for the attorneys and I would want to give a legal opinion," Bledsoe said.

Trevino says Irwin must carry him

CARACAS (UPI) — The 22nd World Cup golf championship begins today with U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin and PGA winner Lee Trevino booked as odds-on favorites to successfully defend the cup for the United States.

Irvin and Trevino will join 62 other players from 45 nations to compete for the team trophy, which has been won by the United States 12 times since competition began in 1953. A one-for-prize-gains-in-the-four-day event will be in dual hours.

Trevino, who is making his fifth appearance in World Cup competition, won the individual title in 1968 in Singapore and joined with Orville Moody there to take team honors. The Mexican-American also played with Jack Nicklaus in 1971 to capture the cup at Palm Beach, Fla.

This year's cup play marks the first time that the bespectacled Irwin is representing the U.S.

In Wednesday's warmup for the tournament, Irwin shot a sparkling four-under-par 66 to share individual honors with Kim Chee-Jaung of Taiwan and Isao Aoki and Masashi Ono of Japan.

Trevino, who arrived here Tuesday and didn't get a chance to warm up at the 7,300-yard par-70 Laguna Country Club course, quipped to the gallery as he teed off on the first hole, "I don't anybody more, I can't find my tee." The Merry Mex then proceeded to shoot an eagle three on the 505-yard hole.

After the round, Trevino expressed satisfaction with his performance and paid a left-handed compliment to both the course and his Venezuelan hosts.

"On every course there's a tee and there's a green," he said, pointing to the Laguna's narrow fairways and fast greens. "So far, it's a beautiful course. There's plenty of rich people here, too."

While Irwin and Trevino are considered the men to beat in the tournament, the U.S. team is expected to get strong competition from the Japanese and the South African hosts.

"There are some guys who have to work hard to make up for the size of the holes," he observed. "But we win the tournament," he confidently predicted.

Peter Townsend and Maurice Hembridge are representing England in this year's cup play, while Scotland is holding Brian Barnes and Bernard Gallagher and Ireland counts with Eddie Pollock and Christy Connor.

This year marks the first time that Israel and Costa Rica have entered teams in the international competition.

Fine by Australian golfers wrings wrath from Trevino

CARACAS (UPI) — "I am not paying," Irvin said.

Those were the words of a defiant Lee Trevino when he heard that he had been fined $655 by the Australian Professional Golfers Association for his comments about the Royal Melbourne Royal Golf Course and his failure to attend the ceremonies following the Chrysler Classic there earlier this month.

Trevino learned of the fine after he shot a tour under par in the warmup to the 22nd World Cup Golf Championship, which begins today.

The Mexican-American golfer also defended the comments he made, following the windup of the tournament in which he finished third with a 292 total.

"That's freedom of the press," the PGA titleholder reminded newsmen at the Laguna Country Club.

At the end of the Chrysler

Classic, Trevino said that "the people of Royal Melbourne are proud of their greens so they can have them. You'd better get a picture of me going through these gates because you won't get me cutting back."

The Mexican-American golfer was also the first to make the comments he made, following the windup of the tournament in which he finished third with a 292 total.

"That's freedom of the press," the PGA titleholder reminded newsmen at the Laguna Country Club.

Trevino, who and his team partner, U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin, are favored to win the World Cup in the United States.

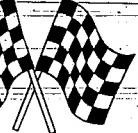

Hockey's Stanley Cup is the oldest trophy competed for by professional athletes in the United States.

Stoneham to move Giants before taking handouts

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Horace Stoneham has his financial house all straightened out so much so that he and his Giants can live in San Francisco at least a couple of more years on their own and there will be no need for fellow National League owners to pass the hat around.

While the NL insists it will never give up its territorial rights in the Bay Area to the American League even if it has to subdue the Giants, Stoneham, a proud man who would never accept charity, insists he will take greener pastures if he can't make it on his own.

"I'm going to give it one more year and then I'll have to start considering a move," Stoneham said Wednesday on a hurried visit home from Arizona. "I've had our offers from eastern cities to move and some of the minority stockholders in the club have indicated they'd be along with a move if that's what I want."

Moving the Giants is not in my plans. I'm confident we'll get over this rough spot and be around San Francisco for many, many years. Still, when you have received the kind of support we did in 1974 you have to start thinking of alternatives."

The Giants fell out of the running in the NL West early June this past season and will end up with a total attendance of barely over 500,000. It was the lowest hit by the majors during a year in which baseball enjoyed a banner season.

With a reduced player payroll and one of the better radio-TV contracts in the majors, Stoneham didn't take much of a red ink bath in 1974 but it was a losing year all the way around, nevertheless.

Most of the money from the early San Francisco glory years of the 1960s is gone but Stoneham picked up around $3-million recently from a land development venture at Casa Grande, Ariz. That's expected to keep the club solvent in San Francisco for at least two years.

"During that time we expect to improve on the field and have a pennant winner," Stoneham said. "There is nothing like a winner to bring out the fans. This is my goal and one I will do everything humanly possible to achieve. I firmly believe winning and attendance go hand in hand, especially in an area such as San Francisco where people have so many things to pick from."

If things don't turn out the way Stoneham has envisioned, then he will consider some of the offers he has been getting lately. The only thing that really bothers him about giving up in San Francisco is leaving the area to Charlie Finley and his Oakland A's.

Stoneham said Italy he can't see how two teams can live in the area and make money. One or the other is bound to suffer financially. Since Stoneham and the Giants were here first, he told Finley should move "if you're gonna leave with the Giants," Stoneham said. "I think if we give the fans a good team to watch they will support us. As for Charlie and his club, what can I say? I'm not interested in moving but he sounds as if he wants to leave. If that's his desire, I say good luck. I think I can outlast him if I connect to that."

Finley and the A's have 13 years left on a 25-year lease with the Oakland Coliseum while Stoneham and the Giants have 22 years left on their original 35-year contract with the City of San Francisco.

Stoneham said he feels both contracts can be broken if the rental fee for the life of the contracts is paid.

One of the big areas currently pursuing the Giants is New Jersey where a huge sports complex is going up in the meadowlands across the Hudson River from Manhattan. The commission already has the New York football Giants and is intent on gaining a baseball tenant as well.

One report has the Minnesota Twins moving to Seattle, Wash., which has been promised a team by 1976. And the Giants going to the Twin Cities, where they once operated successful minor league teams.

Congratulatory calls

Seasoning in minors helped Burroughs

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Three years ago Ted Williams banished Jeff Burroughs to the minors, telling the blind slugger to heat his bat and cool his head.

Burroughs, then 20, had a temper that exceeded his batting average. During his tenure, he often tossed bats and helmets and kicked water coolers.

When Williams sent

Burroughs to Denver of the American Association, the youngster won 10 games, 16 with just one home run and a mere 12 strikeouts. He finished the season in the minors hitting .313 and hitting 21 homers.

And it was no secret he didn't care for Williams, the Hall of Famer who then managed the Texas Rangers.

But Burroughs learned and now he praises Williams for helping him become the American League's Most Valuable Player for 1974.

"We had our differences," Burroughs said of his former manager who convinced Bob Short to sign the youngster as the team's No. 1 draft choice in 1969. "But I have to say that Ted Williams taught me to think at the plate a little more—that hitting isn't just walking up there and taking three swings."

Burroughs and Jenkins were two big reasons the Rangers finished just five games behind Oakland in second place in the American League West. And Burroughs was quick to credit manager Billy Martin.

"He turned everyone on the club's thinking around,"

Burroughs said of Martin. "He taught me and everyone else on the club to think like a winner."

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A curious Friday in which you would be wise not to try to travel or to extend your horizons or interests, but at the same time it is an excellent day for using your best judgment to think out the ways by which you can quietly organize your future for greater success.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Busy yourself with improvements to prevent setup at home or business; instead of going on any tangent, Control your temper.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 18) Don't waste time with duties that aren't working out well. Ideal day for the social and becoming more popular, making new friends.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Avoid know-it-all associates. See what a higher-up suggests for your advancement. Handle credit, vocational matters.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Follow hunches to gain knowledge under pressure and don't get into either one something that's just flim-flam.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Fulfill promises. Listen to what an associate has to say and understand the right meaning. Forget about pleasure jaunts now.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Long talks with partners will reveal what is in their minds, but don't upset the present arrangement because of a family tie.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make your surroundings more pleasant. Avoid recklessness and use care in driving. Handle routines wisely and don't get behind.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't spend too much for entertainment today, or you will regret it later. Use talents you keep idle and make the future brighter.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't go out for fun, but try to place yourself in your home in better condition; avoid being too tight with a home.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get out and take advantage of a fine opportunity. Don't hesitate to ask favors of those who can grant them. Be charming.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Consult monetary experts. Steer clear of idle friends who can deter progress. Make new ones who are up-and-coming.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Let your wishes be known to others who can help you attain them, but postpone talks with bigwigs until Monday.

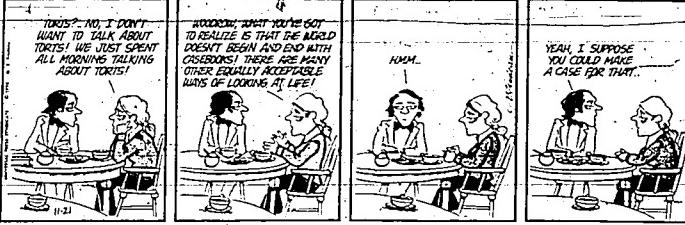

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will have excellent intuitive faculties and will want to trust them rather than other people, and thereby will know just what to do or say at the right time. Give the best education possible, but don't encourage to go into foreign countries, as big business, corporations, and the like are fine for him or her on our home grounds. Ethical training early.

Mohawk Indians claim Adirondack Mountains

By MICHAEL R. FRANCO
BIG MOOSE, N.Y. (UPI)

Mohawk Indians, who are claiming the Adirondack mountains as their own under a 1791 treaty, hope to return to the old ways, to hunt and fish and live off the land, in New York and Vermont.

They are preparing for a long winter, while armed sentries guard the mountain passes.

"The Great Mohawk Nation," reads only a 412-page former park ranger claim that a band of 50 Mohawks occupied last May. But the Indians think in bigger terms. They claim the nine million acres of the entire Adirondacks of northern New York State and part of Vermont under a 1791 treaty.

I tried to visit the camp near picturesque Moss Lake. A young Mohawk shrewdly armed with bow and arrow, his hair in long braids and rope headband, barred the way on the treacherous road up the scrub oak slope.

A bespectacled Indian spokesman came from a simple log hut to tell at length of the known return to the "old ways, to hunt and fish and live off the land in a non-nosed society."

He spoke with sarcasm of how "our nation has oppressed peoples all over the world just as we have been oppressed."

"But the oppressed are getting back their land from your nation. They did in the Philippines," said the Mohawk in warm boots, winter coat and mittens. "We're asking that the (federal) government recognize our legal right to the land."

The Indian occupation attracted relatively little attention through the summer. State and local authorities tried to negotiate the return of the land. The Indians opened their camp to Indians. Some came from Canada. One Sioux joined them from the South west.

Then on Oct. 28, a nine-year-old and a 22-year-old man were shot as they passed the camp in the snow. More than 10 state police surrounded the area. The Indians refused to let them in and said they would talk only with the president of the United States or his representative.

Speaking from his town reservation, "Diondaga" chief Oren Lyons lent his support.

"The treaty signed in 1791 between the big six nation confederacy and the United States establishes a procedure for the application of the law which must be followed," he said.

Edward Cavell, a federal mediator, entered the talks with the Indians and investigators were allowed into the camp. The tension eased. Only a few tense policemen keep watch on the camp. The Indians say they prefer to settle it in court but still insist President Ford should intervene.

While a truce prevails, the Indians are preparing for a long stay.

Faced with an Adirondack winter in which temperatures go to 30 below and snowfalls tally up to 200 inches, the Indians are trying to insulate many of their small summer lakeside cabins they occupy. They have raised supplies and money from supporters and the reservations from which they come—the St. Regis straddling the Canadian border on the St. Lawrence, the Caughnawaga near Montreal, one in Ontario and the Alleghany in western New York.

Supplies from the Federal economic opportunity office at Waterford, N.Y.

But there is fear among many white residents.

"There's only one road out of here and that's to those Indians," said Doug Bennett of Big Moose. "We could virtually isolate it if the road ever became blocked."

A housewife said the school bus for Big Moose passes the Indian camp daily.

"We can live with the Indians as long as they don't bother the snowshoers going near their land," he said.

Reporters tour Ford quarters

TOKYO (UPI) - White House reporters had a tour of Gerald Ford's private quarters while he was out Wednesday and learned the President is sleeping in a pink-camouflaged bed during his stay at Japan's state guesthouse.

Ford has a bar near the bed, and his favorite pipes are spread about his suite of rooms at the Gehinkan, the former Akasaka Palace.

A group of reporters was permitted to tour Ford's rooms while the President was meeting elsewhere with Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka.

The ornate presidential suite is located on the second floor of the Gehinkan, recently renovated at a cost of $3 million, and pink is the predominant color throughout.

There are pink and white tapestry panels, a pink dressing room and a marble bath.

Ford's sitting room has ivory and gold woodwork, ceilings about 15 feet high and marble fireplaces with large mirrors above the mantles.

The President can look out on a large fountain from his sun balcony and can see the Tokyo skyline.

Decorators have placed empire furniture throughout the suite and White House stationery is on a writing table.

A table set up next to the presidential bed had a vase basket and various hard liquors including gin and vermouth, rum, with a bottle of stuffed olives.

Two cell phones and a White House telephone with note pads are at Ford's bedside, and underneath a night table is a tape deck.

Ford watches judo match

TOKYO (UPI) - President Ford leaned forward and clapped, but Matt Smith picked himself up off the canvas and roared.

The 9-year-old California boy, the only American to compete, practiced to demonstrate the martial arts of Judo for Ford today but kept his arm unextended.

It was just a brief pause in a hectic day of sightseeing and ceremonial affairs for Ford. But it was a moment of anguish for the 4-foot 4, 70-pounder from Palm Alto.

"My President was there watching. I had to do it," said Matt, who came to Budokan stadium as the only American deemed able to demonstrate to Ford those angry but disciplined arts of Judo and kendo.

Ford had taken a seat on a platform to the cheers of 10,000 Japanese "judo fans" who gave up a 45-second standing ovation. Ford crossed his legs, donned his silver bowed eyeglasses and thumbed his thumbs up.

Eight black-belt judo experts, tossed, one another on the mat. Twelve kendo champions, wearing their mesh masks, waist armor and wide length robes, swung their bamboo swords while shouting a Far East version of a rebel yell.

Then came Matthew Smith and nine other boys in the white suits of judo.

The boys paraded. One boy tried to throw down the other. Four boys went down. The President looked at the still struggling pair. One was Matt, the other from Japan.

Dawn went Matt, dropped up and tossed by his Japanese partner.

Nation favors vodka over bourbon

NEW YORK (UPI) - Bally up to the bar, boys, and have a belt -- of vodka and orange juice. Vodka and orange juice?

"I'm afraid so. Vodka has just replaced bourbon as the nation's favorite hard alcohol drink."

Apparently, even two-faced drinkers who once dismissed vodka as a drink for silly girls and sissies are sipping it. In shot-and-beer towns such as Detroit, taverns in tough factory neighborhoods report selling far more vodka than bourbon or whiskey in the past four or five months.

A big seller at the Blue Moon wholesaler said: "This is a bourbon area -- probably the strongest bourbon area of the whole country" -- the single best-selling liquor is Smirnoff vodka.

J. Richard Grieb, president of Smirnoff division of Heublein, said the Carlson line has had such dramatic growth in the last 10 years because it mixes "with whole lot of flavors people like." Vodka doesn't interfere with the flavor.

The proof, it exists as very small," conceded one who declined to be identified. Last year, he said, bourbon and vodka were running "very close" with bourbon slightly ahead.

Grieb said few hard figures are available for 1974, but government statistics show vodka running ahead.

Smirnoff, which takes credit for the Screwdriver, the Moscow Mule and the Bloody Mary, introduces "new flavor" vodka every 60 days. Today's is the first Adam Apple vodka, what else, and apple cider.
